

INQUIRY SHOWS NEW WOOL BILL WILL FAIL TO PASS THE SENATE

Republican Progressives Unwilling to Join With Democrats in Such Marked Duty Reductions.

ADMIT NEED OF CUT

Clinging, However, to Policy of Protection They Contend That Raw Material Tariff Is Not Too High.

WASHINGTON—The Democratic wool schedule cannot pass the Senate. The Republican insurgents will not unite with the Democrats to put it through.

A careful inquiry conclusively shows today that at least a majority of the progressive have already decided to oppose the Democratic program. Not all the progressive senators have concluded the study of the bill, but two or three progressives now in doubt may finally vote for the Democratic measure.

It is more likely that the Republicans, regulars and insurgents will present a solid front in the Senate at least in their opposition to the Democracy. Thus the wool program of the House will furnish an opportunity for the Democrats to appeal to the people but nothing more.

The House leaders have furthered the popular impression that the wool schedule was so drawn as to meet the objections raised by the late Senator Dilliver and his insurgent colleagues to the Payne bill. The progressive position is that the Democratic bill does not meet those objections in any satisfactory way.

Furthermore, according to their view, it does things which have never been proposed by any progressive. The Democratic bill greatly reduces the duty on raw wool. The progressives have never said that the present protection to raw wool was excessive.

The Democratic bill rejuvenates the Wilson bill system of imposing duties upon an ad valorem basis entirely. The progressives have never found fault with the use of specific duties. Indeed, it may be expected that the progressives will favor specific duties in so far as they are practicable. The Democratic bill makes sweeping reductions not only upon raw wool but upon manufactures of wool.

Chairman Underwood makes no claim that these rates have been fixed upon a protective basis. The progressives have never renounced their allegiance to the protective principle and do not know whether the wool industry can stand such a radical measure. They want the report of the tariff board in order that reductions may be made intelligently, they say.

The majority of the progressives are ready now to join with the Democrats in correcting the plain faults which they pointed out long ago in the wool schedule. These corrections do not depend upon information to be furnished by the tariff board. It may be expected that they will offer amendments to the Democratic bill, proposing those changes and no others.

But the program, though making marked reductions on manufactures, does not contemplate radical cuts all along the line, and the majority of the progressives have not the least expectation that the Democrats will be content to build the tariff policy over again and stop where the progressives desire to stop.

An attack on the Democratic wool tariff bill on the ground that it gives protection to the "worsted trust" was made in the House by Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas on Thursday.

Mr. Murdock attacked 40 per cent duty on worsted clothes which the bill contains, declaring that it meant immediate protection to the combination that controls the worsted output.

Mr. Murdock said that the worsted trust had so lowered the quality of goods that "clothing manufacturers have been ashamed to pass the fabrics on to the wearers." At the same time, he said,

ALL THE MEMBERS OF LYNN PARK BOARD RESIGN

LYNN, Mass.—Following the demand of Mayor William P. Connerly Thursday for the resignation of John McCarthy, city sealer of weights and measures, the whole board of park commissioners of this city resigned today.

The action was in sympathy with Nathan Mortimer Hawks, secretary of the board, whose resignation had been demanded by Herbert W. Bayrd, commissioner of public property. Mr. Hawks has on several occasions declined to cooperate with the commissioner as required under the new charter, and the demand for the resignation was the result.

The retiring park commissioners are four of the leading men of the city: Charles H. Hastings, publisher of the Lynn Item; Patrick B. Magrane, the city's heaviest tax payer; Augustus J. Hennessey, a shoe manufacturer, and Arthur W. Pinkham, president of the National City Bank.

The demand for the resignation of Sealer McCarthy came as a result of complaints of the state sealer's office of laxity of inspection in Lynn. Friends of Mr. McCarthy claim that he has been unable to cover the city alone and that assistance has been refused him.

VISIT TO MONTREAL
AID TO BOSTON DOCK
PLAN, SAYS MR. LONG

"Boston's proposed development of its docks will be greatly helped by lessons drawn from the work done by the government in the development of Montreal harbor during the visit to that city of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange."

This statement was made by Henry C. Long today. Mr. Long was instrumental in forming the party.

Mr. Long said: "The greatest thing accomplished by the trip was that 100 of the strongest men of Boston had a chance to get intimately acquainted with each other as to their ideas of the state's development of Boston harbor. They returned thoroughly imbued with the idea that all the organizations represented should work in unity for the passage of the new $30,000,000 appropriation for harbor development contained in the Brown bill."

"We found that the entire water front on both sides of the St. Lawrence river was owned by the harbor commission, consisting of three members appointed by the Governor-General during his pleasure."

"From a standpoint of administration and efficiency they have the best conducted harbor in the world."

On the return trip the organizations and Mayor Fitzgerald discussed the draft of the bill now about to be reported by the metropolitan committee. It was decided to work for the bill as it now stands.

SPANISH PREMIER DEFENDS COMING
MOROCCO ACTION

MADRID—A statement was made by Premier Canalejas in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday night that Spain's projected military operations at El-Araish, Morocco, were not inconsistent with the treaty of Algeiras or other agreements.

It was necessary, he said, for Spain to restore and preserve order in that part of Morocco. It is understood that the government plans the occupation of Tetuan, Morocco, also, because Spanish subjects have been killed or attacked by rebellious tribesmen.

In both the Tetuan and El-Araish regions Spanish interests are considered to be endangered. The French government is endeavoring to dissuade Spain from these military movements.

PARIS—The French government is concerned over Spanish activities in Morocco, especially at a time when France, having attained the relief of Fez, intends to withdraw her troops after reorganizing the Sultan's army and having accomplished the pacification of the country.

TEACHERS' PAY BILL RECONSIDERATION IS VOTED IN THE SENATE

On Motion of Mr. Hatton of Boston Further Action on Measure Is Laid Over to Next Tuesday.

NEW BILL PREPARED

Representative Montague Is Ready to Introduce New Plan if Veto of Governor Is Finally Sustained.

In the Senate today, Senator Hatton of Boston moved for reconsideration of the vote by which the Senate sustained Governor Foss late yesterday afternoon in his veto of the Boston elementary teachers bill. Reconsideration prevailed and on further motion by Senator Hatton the matter was laid over to next Tuesday for debate.

Representative Montague of Boston, house chairman of the legislative committee on cities, which had charge of the Boston elementary school teachers salary bill, said today that he and other members of the committee have prepared a new bill which is to be presented to the Legislature in case the Senate sustains the Governor in his veto of the original measure when the matter comes up for reconsideration next Tuesday.

It is planned to substitute the new bill for the emergency bill reported by the committee last week, said Mr. Montague. This latter measure was reported on recommendation of Governor Foss that some legislation be enacted to provide an increase of pay for all the teachers of Boston whom the school committee thought deserving.

The new bill, said Mr. Montague, will probably be satisfactory to all parties interested, the teachers, the school committee, the Governor, Mayor Fitzgerald, the Legislature and the public. It provides for an increase of 10 cents per thousand dollars in the tax levy of the city the first year after the bill becomes law, 20 cents the next year and 30 cents each year thereafter.

The first bill called for a 10 per cent increase the first year and a 20 per cent increase thereafter.

It has not been settled yet, Mr. Montague said, as to what provision will be made in the new bill for the expenditure of the money raised by this extra levy. He intimated that provision would probably be made for using the money for benefit of all teachers, subject to the discretion of the school committee, as the Governor recommended.

This provision was not in either the original bill or the emergency bill recently reported by the committee.

Following the debate on the bill Thursday the Senate sustained the Governor in his veto of the bill by but one vote, 25 members being in favor of passing the bill over the veto to 14 opposed. It was necessary to obtain 26 votes in favor of a two-thirds vote is required in such a case by the state constitution.

Senator Lomasney's criticism of Governor Foss during the debate Thursday is regarded by many politicians as further evidence of a pending break between the Boston Democratic organization and the conservative wing of the Massachusetts Democrats, including the Governor and his friends.

ATWOOD CIRCLES BAY
IN BIPLANE THE MOTH
BEFORE BREAKFAST

ATLANTIC, Mass.—Harry Atwood, who, with Charles K. Hamilton as a passenger made a flight Thursday from Swampscott to Squantum, went aloft in the Burgess-Wright biplane, the Moth, before breakfast today.

Repairs had been made on the Moth in the night, and when the ascent was made this morning the biplane was working perfectly.

Mr. Atwood made 12 circuits over a course from the aviation field, along the shores of Quincy bay, over a portion of lower Boston harbor, taking in Long, Moon and Thompson islands, over the Neponset river, and back to the field.

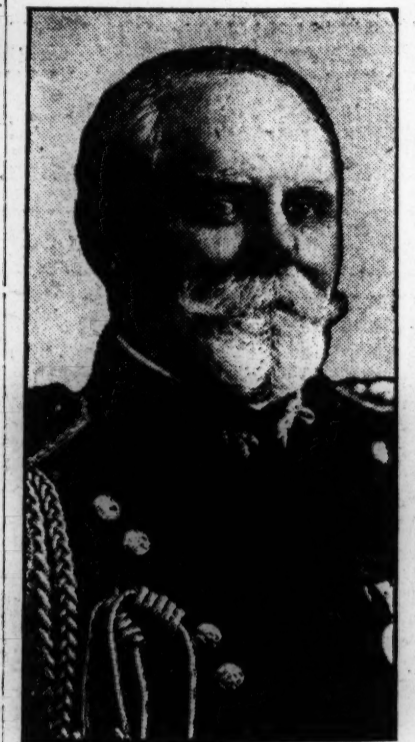

The flight was watched by many workers going to Boston on trains and trolley cars.

Soon after 8 o'clock the aviator came down and went to breakfast at the Squantum inn.

He said he would go up again today. Charles K. Hamilton, who flew with Mr. Atwood from Squantum to Swampscott and back said that the flying conditions today are ideal, and that both he and Mr. Atwood will probably do considerable flying before night.

Hamilton and Atwood flew 27 miles in 25 minutes from the Tedesco Club grounds in Swampscott Thursday evening.

TROOPS RECALLED

WASHINGTON—President Taft authorized today Secretary of War Stimson and Major-General Wood, chief of staff, to proceed at once with the withdrawal of the troops now at Galveston, Tex., and San Diego, Cal.

A telegram was received at the war department from Major-General Carter, commanding at San Antonio, Tex., reporting that the entire division marched from Leon Springs to San Antonio last night, making the 21 miles in less than 12 hours.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Maj. Gen. Arthur Murray is expected to arrive here before July 1 and take command of the troops, succeeding Major-General Grant.

BARON DE CONSTANT ENDS HIS PEACE TOUR
AND SAILS FOR HOME

NEW YORK—Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, peace advocate, who has delivered numerous lectures in this country, sailed for France Thursday on La Provence. He expects to return next year.

No more remarkable arbitration propaganda has occurred than Baron d'Estournelles' three months journey throughout the United States. He has traveled more than 20,000 miles, spoken before university gatherings, clubs and other organizations devoted to public welfare. The senator of France was received enthusiastically everywhere. California and the South, the northwest as well as the eastern states, took him at his word.

The baron's tour was inspired by the American Association for International Conciliation. The French holder of the Nobel prize is the founder of the association with headquarters in Paris. Before leaving his country for America he was presented with a medal, the ceremonies taking place in the Senate chamber with leading statesmen in attendance. His colleagues in Parliament are preparing to give him an enthusiastic welcome on his return.

REPORTS $87,253.94
SAVED TO THE CITY

Commissioner Rourke of the public works department reports to Mayor Fitzgerald a saving of $87,253.94 in four months under consolidation of the departments of street, water and engineering.

The comparison is made with the corresponding four months of 1910 before consolidation.

BOSTON WOMEN GOLF TEAM WINS GRISCOM
TROPHY FOR SEASON

Defeat Philadelphia Players in Three of the Six Four-some Matches Played This Morning.

FINE COMPETITION

Two of the Matches Are Won by the Small Margin of One Up and One Goes to Twenty.

Boston women golfers added another victory to their credit in the Griscom trophy this morning on the links of the Brae-Burn Country Club when they won 3 of the six foursome matches, making their total 11 as against 10 for their Philadelphia opponents.

The first foursome to be started was that with Mrs. R. H. Barlow and Mrs. E. H. Fittler of Philadelphia playing against Miss H. S. Curtis and Miss L. A. Wells of Boston. The match was won by Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Fittler after one of the most interesting and exciting foursomes seen on these links in some time.

Miss Curtis and Miss Wells were leading the match by 1 up when the players finished their outward trip and turned for home. The medal strokes for the two pairs at that time favored the Philadelphia players by two. By taking the twelfth hole, the Boston pair made it 2 up. They then lost the thirteenth, but won the fourteenth, again making it 2 up. The Philadelphia pair then won the fifteenth and sixteenth and took the match at the eighteenth with a 4. Curiously enough the

GOVERNOR SUBMITS REPORT ON FISHERIES, GAME AND FORESTS

Governor Foss transmitted to the Legislature today reports by Clinton H. Scovell on the work of the state forester and of the commissioners of fisheries and game.

The Governor drew particular attention to Mr. Scovell's recommendation that the state embark on an active waste land, which would result, it is asserted, in an annual income to the state, within 50 years, of $2,000,000 annually.

Mr. Scovell believes that by this means the state could reduce the annual loss of $250,000 through forest fires to $100,000.

As regards fire protection Mr. Scovell regrets that in this state approximately 40,000 acres of woodland is burned each year, causing a loss of $250,000. He recommends that the state forester be authorized to exercise a more rigid control over the causes of forest fires.

Concerning fisheries and game, Mr. Scovell finds no reason for the continuance for a three-headed fisheries and game commission. The nature and scope of the work is such that he considers it would be well administered by one competent man.

The Governor concurs with Mr. Scovell in recommending the reorganization of this commission and the placing of it under the direction of one man.

PLAN DORCHESTER
ALL-DAY PROGRAM
FOR ANNIVERSARY

Celebration of Dorchester's two hundred and eighty-first anniversary is to take place Saturday with an elaborate program in which outdoor sports will have an important part.

Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, has agreed to make an ascension from Franklin field Saturday and, if conditions are favorable, will alight in the vicinity of Mayor Fitzgerald's home, 38 Welles avenue.

There will be baseball and other athletic games, sail and power boat races of the Savin Hill Yacht Club, a reunion of St. Mark's parish at the mayor's home, opening of the Dorchester Gentlemen's Driving Club's new half mile speedway at Franklin field, prize drill by the 10 companies of the Dorchester high school cadets, a road race that will finish on Franklin field, with prizes awarded by the city; rededication exercises at the Edward Everett statue, Edward Everett square by the Dorchester Historical Society, historical exercises and prize giving at the Edward Everett school, band concerts at various public squares, fireworks at Franklin field, the whole to conclude with a municipal ball, to be held at Roger Wolcott school, Mattapan, in the evening. Every club in the district will keep open house.

Mayor Fitzgerald will observe the high school cadets' prize drill, attend the historical exercises at Edward Everett square, drive a horse down the new speedway, open various athletic contests, open the St. Mark's reunion at his home and lead the grand march in the evening.

Conflict between Mayor Fitzgerald and the school committee is imminent over a plan of the former to move the school department headquarters from Mason street to one of the upper stories of the annex to the city hall to be erected on the site of the old court house.

MAYOR NOW PLANS TO REMOVE SCHOOL
QUARTERS TO ANNEX

The committee had planned to have quarters for its school administrative departments in the proposed building for the high school of commerce, but because the selection of a site for this building has been delayed the mayor has decided upon other quarters more to his liking and copies of the drawings for the annex, which are being prepared at the offices of E. P. T. Graham, have been approved submitted to the mayor for approval. These plans provide for various arrangements of floors and decorations, including a decorative tower for the Court street frontage of the new building.

A plan for connecting the old and new buildings, which it is believed will be generally acceptable, provides for arching the building over the Court square roadway directly in the rear of the present building and erecting on this arch a six-story structure which will provide a bridge to the annex from every floor of the old building, connecting with the corridors of each floor of the annex from the second to the seventh.

By this agreement it will be possible to give the auditing and treasury departments additional room in the old building and move the collecting and assessing departments to the new building.

If the six-story bridge plan is carried through the first floor of the annex will be given to the election department. The first floor of the old building, now occupied by the assessors, auditor, treasurer and collector, will be given to the auditing and treasury departments, the treasurer taking the space now used by the collector on the west side of the building, and the city auditor taking the room now used by the assessors on the east side of the first floor.

The bridge floor over the archway which will connect the first floor of the old building with the second of the annex will be cut through at the level of the landing of the stairs leading from the first floor to the mayor's office, where the big tablet is now placed.

It is planned to give the collecting department all of the second floor of the annex, corresponding with the first floor of the present building. The second bridge floor will connect the mayor's floor in the old building with the third floor of the annex, on which will be the assessing department occupying the entire floor.

The other bridge floors will connect the third, fourth, fifth and sixth floors of the present building with the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh of the new.

PITTSFIELD STORE
SAFE IS ROBBED

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—When William H. Cooley opened his grocery store here today he discovered that during the night the place had been entered and that from an unlocked safe the intruders had stolen $5000 worth of negotiable bonds, $14,000 worth of stock certificates and $35 in cash.

Remains of food taken from the shelves showed that they had lunched in full view of the street. The police found no clew to the perpetrators.

PRICES OF STEEL RAILS LONG CONTROLLED BY PENNSYLVANIA ROAD

James Gayley, Former Vice-President of the Gary Corporation, so Testifies Before the Congress Committee.

MR. CARNEGIE ALERT

Witness Tells How He Came Near Entering the Tube Business as a Competitor of J. P. Morgan's.

WASHINGTON—James Gayley, former vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation, in the course of his testimony today before the House committee investigating the steel combine, said that for many years prices of steel rails were practically controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Mr. Gayley, who was a superintendent of blast furnaces in the Carnegie Steel Company, the original steel property of Andrew Carnegie at one time, said that prior to the organization of the steel combine "ruinous competition" obtained.

"The companies would wage war," he said, "and then when almost exhausted, make price agreements that they might recuperate and prepare to fight some more. This competition would have meant a monopoly of the steel business by the strongest company."

Mr. Gayley corroborated by the testimony of John W. Gates that Mr. Carnegie contemplated entering the steel tube business in competition with the National Tube Works, controlled by J. P. Morgan.

"At that time was Carnegie anxious to sell his steel works?" asked Representative Young (Rep. Mich.).

"Well, I would say he was willing," answered Mr. Gayley.

"Did he contemplate building a steel tube works at Conneaut?"

"The Carnegie Steel Company in its growth found itself unable to run in some branches because the demands for its products were not continuous. We bought about 5000 acres of land at Conneaut about 1899 and looked into various propositions. We contemplated building a tube mill, and then again we thought of going into the wire business."

"With whom would you have competed in the tube business?" asked Mr. Young.

"The National Tube Works, which I later learned were controlled by J. Pierpont Morgan," said Mr. Gayley.

Mr. Young then questioned him as to the $700,000,000 valuation placed on the Carnegie properties during the Frick-Carnegie litigation.

"That was only the book value and did not represent the earning capacity," said the witness. He said he knew nothing of the details of the sale of the properties to the steel corporation until Mr. Carnegie himself presented the proposal at a meeting of the Carnegie directors in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Gayley said that he had never heard of any proposition of the Carnegie

DE LA BARRA AND MADERO AIDING AT THE EARTHQUAKE

MEXICO CITY—President de Barra and Francisco I. Madero have taken charge today of the work of relief in connection with the earthquake. They have begun by aiding the relatives of the less than 200 who were killed in this city, and have extended their aid to the Colima section, where the force of the upheaval was most severe.

The city of Colima is said to be practically in ruins, and in the country around Colima heavy damage was done to 41 cities, all with a population of more than 1500. Seven of these are reported to have been destroyed.

That fully 50,000 are homeless is the belief of government officials, and everything possible will be done to render aid to the refugees. Special trains to carry troops and as large a supply of food as can be quickly assembled are being prepared.

The report of the total known killed is now 1456, and it is estimated that when the full facts become known the figures will reach 5000.

A new earthquake shock was recorded in the observatory here today. It is thought to be in the south, where the disturbance centered, chiefly in the state of Acapulco. The shock lasted five minutes.

The area of the earthquake of Wednesday is rectangular with its northern boundary less than 50 miles from the capital and a southern line cutting across the lower part of Guerrero. The number of casualties in Mexico City, as compiled by the police, remains 63.

ON BOARD THE YPIRANGA, by wireless—Gen. Porfirio Diaz received news of the earthquake in Mexico and the arrival of Senor Madero at the capital by wireless late last night while the steamship was 1000 miles due east of Cape Hatteras, speeding eastward to Havre.

company to build a railroad to New York. He approved of the sale of the Carnegie company to the United States Steel Corporation.

When this committee adjourns today it will not reconvene until next Tuesday. "I wish," said Judge Gary before leaving the stand on Thursday, "that this committee will take advantage of its opportunity to propose legislation and use its influence to bring about the enactment of proper legislation calculated to properly protect the property interests of the country, the interests of the government and the people at large, so as to permit us to continue business progress along lines of prosperity."

"Constructive legislation is what is needed in this country if we are to retain our position in the ranks with competing nations of the world."

"Would you believe it sensible," asked Representative Littleton, "to have Congress appoint a joint committee to hear reports of capital and of labor and of so-called restrained and unrestrained trade with a view to preparing an anti-trust law which would correct features of the Sherman law or errors that might have come through court decisions on that law and to strengthen and elaborate that law?"

"Yes, I do," responded Mr. Gary, "and I would be glad to have such an undertaking result in something more practical and to be the first one to fall into line to live up to such a law."

The "Gary dinner," where steel men throughout the country acquainted each other with all facts relating to their business and proposed the maintenance of prices to prevent "destructive competition," were delved into by the committee.

Representative Beall sought to show that the result of those understandings was tantamount to a signed agreement to control prices, a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"I have stated repeatedly," said Mr. Gary, "that I believed, and all of us in the steel business believed, that open and frank disclosures to each other of our business conditions and propositions as to the best interests of all brought about an equilibrium in the trade and prevented destructive competition."

"If the members of this committee believe it is better for all concerned in this country for the steel interests to enter into destructive competition than to try to legally maintain an equilibrium of business it is up to you."

Mr. Gary said he had made no attempt to disguise the fact that the steel men sought to keep the prices as near a level as possible by friendly interchange of ideas for the purpose of getting between the restraint of trade and monopoly provisions of the Sherman law, on the one hand, and destructive competition on the other.

the cost of worsted goods has been increased.

MR. PETERS URGES BILL FOR REVISION OF WOOL SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON.—Representative Peters of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, said today in addressing the House that the Democratic majority recognized the public demand for a revision of schedule K and this revision would be carried through with the same promptness and with the same success which had characterized all legislation contemplated by the majority of the House at this session.

"The very existence of a Democratic majority in this House during a Republican administration is, in view of the failure of the Republican party to revise the tariff downward, ample proof that the present effort of the Democrats to bring the tariff back to a revenue basis at the earliest opportunity is the will of the people," he said.

"In presenting a revision of this schedule your committee are obliged to bear in mind the fact that the revenues of the government must be provided for. The total income of the government from the imports of wool and woolsens for 1910 was $41,900,000, or 12.8 per cent of total duties collected. True to its promises the Democratic party will without question effect great economies in the government and will greatly lighten the burden on our people through taxation."

"I am convinced that it is not only for the best interests of the Democratic party, but for the best interests of the country that all who would remedy the evils of the notorious schedule K, which President Taft himself has declared to be 'indefensible,' should give their hearty support to the bill proposed by your committee, and thereby revise the most objectionable part of the departed Payne-Aldrich tariff act."

"If all the Democrats and the Republicans for that matter, who felt that the Canadian reciprocity agreement did not go to the limit of their ideals in the matter, had opposed the measure on this ground, the reciprocity bill would have been overwhelmingly defeated by this body."

"The need of revenue forces the Democratic party to propose a bill which continues a higher tax on one of the necessities of life than it would like to but until some of the schedules with prohibitive tariff rates can be revised and brought to a revenue basis this present plan is seen to be a necessity when one considers the present condition of the treasury. The Democratic party feels, however, that by reducing the present duties on wool and its manufactures by more than 50 per cent it has taken a long step in the right direction."

"Not only does the bill propose a very material reduction in the duties, it corrects certain gross evils. Taxes should be levied justly and equitably and no bill should seek either to hide from the people the rate of taxation which is levied or to give in disguise an advantage to one consumer or producer over another."

"The producer of wool who, with a protection of not less than 44 per cent, has been unable to produce to within 44 per cent of the raw wool needed to supply the American manufacturer, can not complain of the reduction in the duty on wool to 20 per cent, a duty that is still unique."

"The producers of woollen manufactures will be placed on an equal footing by this bill. The closed home market, cent of its woollen goods, will be opened up to a wholesome foreign competition, one that has come to import but 3 per cent and the reduction in the cost of raw materials will make it possible for the American manufacturer to extend his market, and there is every reason to believe that the insignificant exportation of manufactures of wool in this country

DR. ELIOT PRESIDES AT CHARITIES DISCUSSION ON TOPIC OF CHILDREN

So large was the number of persons who sought admission to the meeting on "Children," over which Charles W. Eliot of Cambridge presided in Ford hall today, that police authority was necessary to clear a large number from the hall before the meeting could open.

An important discussion of the local option question was heard at the section meeting in the Twentieth Century Club. Prof. A. R. Hatton of the Western Reserve University contended that the local option should be smaller. Instead of a state or a county unit, there should be a city or town unit, or even dividing the city into sections, make every section or ward a unit for expression of opinion.

The opposite side of the question was taken by U. F. Fox of New Jersey. Mr. Fox believed that the best results can be obtained by cooperation of social workers with the saloons.

The general session will be held at 8 o'clock this evening in Ford hall, Porter E. Lee of Philadelphia chairman. Subject, "Families and Neighborhoods"; speakers, Dr. Edward T. Devine, editor of the Survey, Dr. Adolph Meyer of Johns Hopkins University.

At Thursday evening's session in Tremont Temple Paul V. Kellogg of New York, recommended cutting off the supply of foreign cheap labor in this country and raising the standard of wages and of living here by making $3 a day the minimum wage for all alien laborers for the first five years, or until they are naturalized, after which time they shall accept any wage they choose.

WEAVING FINES BILL REPORTED IN THE SENATE

In the Senate this morning these committee reports were read:

Labor—A bill prohibiting employers from imposing a fine for imperfect weaving under a penalty of not exceeding $100 fine. Senator McLen. Representatives Ellis, Hovatt and Bogg dissent.

Metropolitan affairs—Mayor Fitzgerald's bill to limit the amounts of expenditure of the city of Boston in construction of sewerage works within the watershed of the Charles river basin in 1911 and 1912 to not exceeding $400,000. Senator Murray dissents.

Railroads—A bill for the reconstruction of the "Slade's Ferry" railroad and highway bridge over Taunton river between Fall River and Somerset.

Labor and public health—A resolve for a state inspection commission for factories and mercantile establishments, which has been printed. Representative Parks of the House dissents. Also reference to General Court of so much of the report of the commission to investigate factories and workshops as does not relate to establishing a state inspection commission.

DIRECT PRIMARY BILL IS PASSED THROUGH SENATE

In the Senate today a bill relative to the direct nomination of candidates for state offices, the election of state, ward and town committees and delegates to state conventions and the holding of state conventions of political parties was passed to engrossment, subject to the amendment of Senator Pearson.

The bill provides that the nomination of political parties for all offices to be filled at a state election (except the office of presidential elector) and the election of district members of state committees, members of ward and town committees, of delegates to state conventions of political parties shall be by direct plurality vote in primaries.

Senator Pearson's amendment relates mainly to the substitution of dates.

COMMITTEE TO HAVE OUTING.
An executive session of the committee on judiciary of the Legislature will be held at the invitation of its chairman, Wilmot R. Evans of Everett, at Plum island, Saturday. The committee will return late in the afternoon at a time agreeable to the members.

DIRECT ELECTION VOTE.
WASHINGTON.—The Senate agreed to adjourn over until Monday when the floor resolution providing for the direct election of senators comes up for a vote.

will materially grow far beyond the present exports which are but two-fifths of 1 per cent of our production of woolsens."

MR. BRYAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD GOV. WILSON POLITICAL PROBLEM

WASHINGTON.—Political Washington is wondering what Mr. Bryan will say in reply to the stand taken by Gov. Woodrow Wilson in this city a few days ago with Mr. Underwood for a duty for revenue purposes on coal. Heretofore Mr. Bryan has spoken kind words about the Wilson administration in New Jersey.

But wool is national and Mr. Bryan seems disposed to make it a national issue. It is Mr. Bryan's fear that Democrats who are not sound on wool are not sound on anything else. The prevailing opinion here is that Governor Wilson's moderate views on the tariff have put all three leading candidates on the Democratic side on an improved footing with business interests generally. It is said that the Governor's reminder to his party associates that Democratic tariff policy is opposed to sudden and sheer reduction of duties, will have the effect of reestablishing confidence in the business world, and perhaps tend to induce the radical revisionists among Democrats to fall in line with the policy which the House has pronounced on wool.

The wool debate in the House will touch the tariff question at every important point, for the principle being applied by the Democrats to wool is to be applied by them to all other commodities. The debate will thus put the Democrats more definitely on record than was the case with the listless discussion of the farmers' free list.

At the same time the decisions of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and the tobacco cases will come in for adequate discussion and there will be emphasis on the political effect of the decisions. This has properly to do with tariff revision, say the experts, seeing that taking the trusts out of politics must have the effect of removing a big issue and quieting the agitation which for years has had a weakening tendency on party ties.

Governor Harmon fell under the displeasure of Mr. Bryan several months ago. Only a few days ago a company of prominent Ohio Democrats got together at Cincinnati. All were Mr. Harmon's friends. They met to consider the Harmon boom, but they found it had waned since the Bryan pronouncement.

Now, will Mr. Bryan be able to do as much to Woodrow Wilson, if so disposed? And will he be so disposed? The Wilson boom is now at its height, which is unfortunate in some respects, for a year will elapse before the national conventions get ready to meet. Many booms may rise and fall in that time. Suppose that Governor Wilson should lose favor that he has lost more or less strength in the eastern states. Both in New Jersey and in New York he for months has been regarded with some degree of suspicion by certain men who originally rejoiced at his appearance in politics and helped elect him governor.

They were being guided by the sentiments Mr. Wilson had expressed in his books on civil government and by the fact that he had been for many years an intimate friend of Grover Cleveland. But now Mr. Wilson is out of harmony with Bryan on the wool question, a national issue, and folks here are wondering what the effect will be on the Wilson presidential boom. It is an interesting situation for Wilson, for Bryan, for Democrats generally, for delegate hunting is already in progress, and some of the most skilled hunters are already in the field.

With Mr. Bryan's support it is believed here that Governor Wilson can be nominated; without it, his nomination would be impossible under the two thirds rule which prevails in Democratic national conventions.

The friends of Speaker Clark are by no means anxious over the presidential outlook. They say frankly that they would much prefer to have the Wilson boom come on now than to have it come next winter or early spring with the convention only a few months distant. The Clark people believe that their favorite is stronger as a presidential factor than he has been at any previous time, and that he is growing stronger steadily week by week.

OFFER FOR MASONIC TEMPLE.
Purchase of the Masonic Temple property at the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets is under consideration as a possible location for its quarters by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. It is reported that the gas people have made an offer of $1,250,000 for the structure, and that the trustees have offered to sell for $1,500,000.

MADERO HAS FIRST CONFERENCE WITH MEXICAN PRESIDENT

MEXICO CITY.—In the presidential castle on the heights of Chapultepec, Gen. Francisco I. Madero and President Francisco de la Barra had their first conference on the political situation on Thursday.

The President sent for General Madero and the installation of governors in the various states, the distribution of soldiers and the situation in Lower California, where the Socialists refused to acknowledge the authority of the present government, were among the subjects discussed.

JUAREZ, Mex.—China will uphold the assertion by Chinese residents of Torreon, Mex., that they did not fire on the insurgents prior to May 15, and besides indemnity for the killing of more than 300 Chinese will enter a claim of $500,000 against the Mexican government for property loss. Of this loss the stores owned by Juan Maa, who was killed, represent $100,000.

This is the substance of the official report received from Wu Lan Poo, of the Chinese legation, who has been investigating the Torreon affair. Mr. Wu reports 303 Chinese were killed.

TUCSON, Ariz.—Governor Redo, who was arrested at Nogales yesterday while attempting to cross the Mexican line, was released later, but is still under surveillance.

Colonel Garcia, the Maderista commander at Nogales, said Redo was being detained while the accounts of the treasury at Sinaloa are being examined.

Reports from Culiacan, the capital of Sinaloa, declare the defeated federal commander, General Morales, was executed because he resisted the Maderista Governor, Bonilla, against the advice of the citizens and the Diaz officials. Morales was shot Tuesday, with Captain Stein.

EL PASO, Tex.—Sixteen hundred former federal and insurgent troops under command of Gen. Benjamin Viljoen, late of the Mexican insurgent army, and Gen. Gordillo Escudero of the Mexican federal army will leave here over American territory to put down the uprising of Mexican Liberals in lower California.

PLAN 1915 NIGHT AT ROTARY CLUB

CLAIM FUND USED FOR MEXICO TRIPS

Arguments by counsel over law points occupied the greater part of today's sessions at the trial of the Rev. Norman Plass, C. H. Brooks and John I. Trep-hagen, officers of the Redeemable Investment Company, before Judge Dodge in the United States district court.

A dispute arose over the admission of evidence to show how much money had been drawn from the company's treasury by the defendants in addition to their salaries.

Attorney French said he wished to show that the money was taken for personal uses. Attorney Elder replied that the defendants had made extensive trips to Mexico and the money drawn in addition to their salaries was used for that purpose.

WOMAN WINS HONORS IN LAW

ALBANY, N. Y.—Miss Hazel M. Cole of Springfield, Mass., has been awarded the Josiah H. Benton prize for excellence in class standing and also won the White prize for the second best examination on corporation law at the Albany Law School. It is the first time a woman has carried off the highest honors of commencement in the school.

DR. JOWETT'S SUCCESSOR CHOSEN.

LONDON.—The congregation of Carr's Lane Congregational church, Birmingham, women and men, have chosen the Rev. George McLuckie as successor to Dr. John H. Jowett, who accepted the call of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York.

The sophomore in the zoology class was asked to describe a loach.
"It is a red fish that goes backward," he replied glibly.
"With the exception of three things," said the professor, "your definition is correct. A loach is not red, it is not a fish and it doesn't go backward."

Some manufacturers seem to have described the farmer as a poor "rube" who buys nothing but gold bricks. This description is accurate with the exception of the fact that the farmer is not poor, he is not a "rube" and he doesn't buy gold bricks. In other words, he is rich, shrewd, and he gets full value for the money he spends, because he is guided in his purchases by the editorial policy and the illuminating advertising in his favorite farm paper—

EASTERN Y. C. TURNS FROM SONDER RACES TO LARGER CRAFT

Interest This Season Centers in Long Distance Races in Which Famous Schooners May Be Entered.

BIG ANNUAL CRUISE

From diminutive sonder boat racing, the Eastern Yacht Club turns this year to the encouragement of the larger craft of the yachting fleet, with the expectation of bringing together in several long distance races and in the annual cruise the newly built schooners Enchantress and Elena, the Westward, fresh from her English victories, the Irolita, formerly the Queen, and the old-timers Emerald, Sea Fox and Iris.

Many trophies are offered for the race around Cape Cod, a special race in Massachusetts bay, the 85 mile run to Portland and other shorter spins along the Maine coast, and the run back from Bar Harbor, which will bring all these boats, as well as many others in the smaller classes, both single and double-masted, into eastern waters during the first two weeks in July.

The principal cup is that offered by the big schooners by Commodore F. Lewis Clark for the initial race around Cape Cod, the start being from New London the day after the Harvard-Yale boat race. This trophy is one of the most artistic pieces of the goldsmith's art that has been offered for many years. It becomes the property of the yacht owner winning it three times, not necessarily in succession.

As smaller yachts will be at New London for the boat races many of them probably will join in the run around the Cape, and Capt. C. C. Rumrill has offered a cup for small schooners, Capt. Lawrence F. Armour another prize for the yaws, and the club joins in making the race complete by contributing a cup for the sloops. This race starts July 1, and it is expected the greater part of the fleet will be at anchor in Marblehead harbor by Monday night, July 3.

In connection with its annual regatta on Independence day, the Eastern Yacht Club offers a special $500 cup for schooners in a race over what will probably be a 40 or 50 mile triangular course in Massachusetts bay.

The annual club cruise will begin with an 85-mile run from Marblehead rock to Portland lightship, followed by several shorter jaunts along the Maine coast until Bar Harbor is reached July 15. Two days later, the schooners and others of the large boats of the fleet will race back 170 miles to Marblehead, with the cup offered by Capt. George H. Norman.

The Norman cups are offered under the same conditions as that of the Clark cup, possession going to the yacht owner winning them three times, and Capt. E. Walter Clark of Philadelphia, already has one leg in the schooner prize, which it scored last year by defeating the Emerald and Iris in a close race from Bar harbor to Marblehead, with his first Irolita.

POLO TEAMS ARE READY FOR GAME

NEW YORK—The second match between the English and American teams for the International polo cup will be played today at Meadowbrook, starting at 4:30 o'clock.

The broad piece of turf with its white board enclosure received a good drying out and rolling Tuesday by a hot sun and a 6-foot roller, while the grass that has shot up under the influence of the 3-days' rainfall earlier in the week, was clipped close during the afternoon.

The stable grooms reported to the players yesterday that the ponies were in fine shape.

The third and last game will probably be played on Monday, as the visitors will leave for home on Wednesday.

TUFTS DEFEATS SYRACUSE.

Hall's home run in the third inning when the bases were full, gave Tufts a commanding lead in the game with Syracuse Thursday and the victory went to Tufts, 8 to 1. Dexter pitched for the visitors in place of Cottrell. The fielding of Syracuse was rather ragged.

Macveagh of Exeter defeated Cooke of Andover handily, being superior in placing. Cady of Exeter defeated Gates of Andover in a close match, there being many exciting rallies. WILLIAMSTOWN—Williams defeated Holy Cross, 2 to 1, Thursday. Holy Cross scored its only run in the first inning, and after the third inning not one of the 18 players saw home plate. ## NOTES ON ARCHERY

By E. B. WESTON

Away back 20, 30 or 40 years, as long ago as we can remember, all the boys, and some of the girls who had the good fortune to live in the country were interested for a longer or shorter time, in shooting with the bow and arrow, or archery, as we now call it. The girls did not often own bows, but their brothers sometimes let them take a shot. The bows were of all kinds. Then we did not go to the store and buy them.

At first we made them out of a barrel hoop, used any kind of a string, and most any kind of a stick for an arrow. This arrow was notched where we grasped it with the thumb and finger. We generally shot these arrows up, to see how high they would go, or at most any object, not having or knowing of a regular target. After a time we made better bows, or our older brothers made them for us. The wood usually used was hickory, ash, hemlock or cedar. The arrows were of pine or of some hard wood, and usually were not feathered, but had the front end enlarged to increase its weight, and keep them head on, in their flight. Sometimes we drove a nail into the head and filed it sharp.

With these improved bow and arrows we sometimes became quite expert. We roved through field and grove, impelled by "the witchery of archery," and time passed happily in those days of childhood and youth. Few of us knew that our playthings had been the weapons of the warrior and the huntsman. We now know they have had a wonderful history, of which it is most fascinating to read. But we pass it by and come to the days of the modern archery.

Since the introduction of firearms the bow has been used as pastime and well as it maintained its place. The children are still playing with bows and arrows, the men and women archers, studying and practicing one of the most skillful of sports.

There are different points of view from which archery may be considered. First, as a social pastime pure and simple. Here the young and old get together on the lawn, and while away an hour shooting at the bright faced target. They have no idea what ought to be done in order to hit it, and it becomes in a great measure a game of chance. But this kind of archery soon becomes tiresome, and is given up for something new. Perhaps a few will want to know why they could not hit the target, and will look into the principles which have made others fine shots. These will soon become more and more interested and it will then become harder for them to drop the sport than it was to prevail upon them to take it up.

One great advantage that archery has is its adaptability to all people. Few are too young, and few are too old to take it up. It is suited to the student and to the athlete, to women and men. The bows are made weak or strong, and are thus adapted to all physiques. As the late Maurice Thompson wrote: "So long as the new moon returns in heaven, a bent, beautiful bow, so long will the fascination of archery keep hold of the hearts of men."

CURTIS BRADY LEADS AD. MEN IN GOLF TOURNEY

NEW YORK—Advertising men took possession of the Apawamis links Thursday for their one-day tournament under the auspices of the New York branch of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests, and upwards of 70 drove off from the first tee. In the 18-hole medal play handicap Curtis Brady of Dunwoodie won first net prize with a card of 100—32—68, while Robert Frothingham, with 110—40—70, was second net.

It remained for F. S. Wheeler, president of the Metropolitan Golf Association, likewise of the home club, to win the gross score trophy with a fine 78. W. C. Freeman and J. J. Hazen tied for second gross, each going around in 84. They decided to settle their deadlock in a putting match once round the nine-hole putting course, and this resulted favorably for Freeman by a 2 and 1 margin.

PENN WINS FROM DARTMOUTH NINE.

HANOVER, N. H.—The University of Pennsylvania defeated Dartmouth here Thursday, 10 to 7.

Mrs. F. G. Davis and Miss A. D. Rogers, Boston, defeated Mrs. M. C. Work and Mrs. J. Akeroyd, Philadelphia, 4 and 3.
Miss E. C. Hood and Mrs. A. P. Chase, Boston, defeated Mrs. C. L. Duncan and Mrs. A. P. Chase, Boston, 1 up (29 holes).

In spite of the fact that the Boston team was weakened at the last moment through the withdrawal of Miss F. C. Osgood, the score at the end of Thursday's play was 8 to 7 in their favor. Before the selection of the home team was made it was at a disadvantage, occasioned by the enforced absence of Miss Margaret Curtis and Mrs. E. C. Wheeler. Then at the eleventh hour Miss Osgood was compelled to withdraw from the team.

Mrs. C. F. Fox was defeated by Miss K. C. Harley, a former national champion, and Mrs. F. W. Batchelder, who has had a great record in the Griscom cup matches, was beaten by Mrs. E. H. Fitter. The summary follows:

M. G. A. HANDICAP LIST CONTAINS OVER 3000 NAMES

Two Players Rated at Scratch, Three at One and Six at Two Strokes.

The handicapping committee of the Massachusetts Golf Association, Edward A. Wilkie, chairman; Harry L. Ayer, Richard R. Freeman and Ralph Cracknell have issued the association's spring handicap list containing 3193 names.

The list has just been sent to the 48 clubs in the association, and it is used in medal play handicap tournaments held under the auspices of the M. G. A.

It is not the last word in handicapping, however, in that the committee holding the tournament may handicap a player as it sees fit, if the committee is of the belief that the state list is not in accordance with its ideas. Changes are made in the state list whenever it is found necessary.

A. G. Lockwood of Belmont is now rated at two and there are but two at scratch, J. G. Anderson and P. W. Whittemore. Lieut.-Gov. Louis A. Frothingham is rated at four.

The new list contains two players at scratch, three at one, six at two, nine at three and 18 at four, as follows:
Scratch—J. G. Anderson, Brae-Burn, and Parker W. Whittemore, Country Club.
One stroke—William C. Chick, Brae-Burn; Percival Gilbert, Brae-Burn; H. H. Wilder, Vesper.
Two strokes—Thomas M. Cladin, Wollaston; Thomas R. Fuller, Wollaston; Frank H. Hoyt, Alston; Arthur G. Lockwood, Belmont; H. W. Stucklin, Brae-Burn; Walter R. Tuckerman, Stockbridge.

Three strokes—G. E. Angus, Brae-Burn; Rodney W. Brown, Meadow Brook; George H. Crocker, Alpine; F. C. Davidson, Oakley; Malcolm McBurney, Stockbridge; Karl E. Messer, Brae-Burn; F. Oulmet, Woodland; Heinrich Schmidt, Worcester; C. E. Smith, Fall River.
Four strokes—J. H. Childs, Essex; J. W. Coe, Worcester; B. S. Evans, Brae-Burn; H. P. Farrington, Woodland; Louis A. Frothingham, Country; Ray R. Gorton, Brae-Burn; B. Hyman, Vesper; J. N. Manning, Brae-Burn; L. B. Paton, Salem; S. Sterne, Tatuck; W. E. Stiles, Brae-Burn; J. B. Thayer, Oakley; H. R. Townsend, Brae-Burn; W. S. Vail, Jr., Brae-Burn; Alverser L. White, Brae-Burn; J. P. Woodin, Brae-Burn; Charles Zeublin, Winchester.

YALE OARSMEN SHOW BEST FORM OF THE SEASON

YALE CREW QUARTERS, Gales Ferry, Conn.—Coach Kennedy plans to put his oarsmen through another hard day's work today in preparation for the first time trial of the year, which will probably be held late tomorrow unless conditions are unfavorable for such a test. The new shell is here and has already been tried out, and the coach is very anxious to see what his first varsity eight can do over the entire distance.

That the varsity eight "looked good to him" and that they showed better form than at any time before this season, were comments made by Graduate Advisory Coach J. W. Curtiss after watching the eight during a 10-mile row Tuesday night. The eight left the float shortly after 5 o'clock in the new shell, which seemed to stand higher and be stiffer than former boats. At a slow stroke, accompanied by the freshman eight, the varsity went down to the navy yard, where the freshmen, who were three boat lengths behind, turned around, the senior eight continuing down to the bridge in one stretch. The return was made at the same stroke, which never raised above 26 or 28. Conditions were favorable and the new shell rode the water smoothly. The shell is 62½ feet long, 10 inches deep and 23½ inches wide.

The work of the freshmen eight shows improvement day by day, but the work of the first varsity four is the best of any of the crews. The three fours went down stream for six miles, rowing slowly, no attempt being made to get up speed.

ANOTHER CUP FOR TOUCHARD.
NEW YORK—Gustave Touchard, who has just returned from a successful defense of the Chevy Chase lawn tennis trophy, is today the holder of the third cup he has either won or retained this week by brilliant playing. The last taken was the Felipe cup which becomes his permanent property by virtue of his defeat of Walter Merrill Hall after five fast sets on the New York club courts yesterday.

BLANCHARD JOINS B. A. A.
LEWISTON—Vaughn S. Blanchard, Bates '12, of Manchester, N. H., winner of both high and low hurdles at the Maine intercollegiate and second in the high hurdles at the New England intercollegiate this year, has joined the Boston A. A. and will compete for that organization at the Wood Island meet. He will also accompany the Boston A. A. team to Pittsburg on July 4.

HOOPER TO CAPTAIN TUFTS.
Allen G. Hooper was elected captain of the Tufts nine for next year just after the Syracuse game Thursday. Hooper heads Tufts' batting order and has led the team in batting the past two seasons. He is a reliable outfielder but during the latter part of this season has been playing a clever game at third base. He is now in his junior year in college.

BASEBALL PICKUPS

Miller has again tied Ingerton for the home-run honors of the Nationals with five.

Tenney is now the only Boston National who has been in every game played by his club this season. Herzog has missed two and Sweeney three.

Theta Delta Chi will meet Alpha Tau Omega in the final game of the Tufts intramural league series this afternoon. The winner will hold the trophy for the year.

Speaker will be the acting captain of the Americans this afternoon and during Wagner's absence from the game. Let us hope that the change in the lineup will mean better work by the team.

Regular Ty Cobb day yesterday: three hits in three times up, two runs, two runs, two stolen bases and a sacrifice hit. Bush was the only man on the team who failed to get a hit, the team total being 15 for 17.

Herzog is certainly playing the best ball of his career this year. He has the fine batting average of .337; has stolen 14 bases, made 14 two-base hits, 3 three-base hits and three home runs and is fielding for .928.

With Speaker batting for .382, Hooper for .313 and Lewis for .304, the Boston Americans can hardly complain of a poor batting outfield. Too bad the infield can't speed up a little both in fielding and batting, and the pitchers show something like major league work.

Boston has six batsmen who have passed the half-century mark in hits. The Americans have three and the Nationals the same number. Miller of the Nationals leads them all with 63, Herzog and Hooper coming next with 57 each; Engle, fourth with 54; Lewis, fifth with 53, and Tenney next with 51. Speaker who leads both teams in batting, lacks one of the fifth mark.

SCHOOL RACES AGAIN PUT OFF.
The school rowing regatta was again postponed Thursday and will be held on the Charles river this afternoon. If it is necessary to postpone the regatta trials for the fourth time today, it will put the committee in a hard position. The Noble & Greenough first and second crews must finish up their rowing today and tomorrow. Examinations are scheduled at that school next week, and if the races should be again postponed the crews will not be able to compete.

YACHT LITTLE ROBIN SOLD.
The Hollis Burgess Yacht Agency has sold the Herreshoff knockabout "Little Robin" owned by Charles S. Eaton of Boston to P. M. Reynolds of Boston, who will use her in North Haven, Ma. Also the 25-foot racing sloop "Early Dawn III," owned by J. E. Doherty of Boston, to John V. Barot of Morristown, N. J., who will use her in Camden, Me., to race against the "Sally VII."

C. T. Woodie '11 is finishing his college course with all the athletic honors possible. He is now the mainstay of the pitching staff and will very probably pitch the game here Saturday.

The usual large commencement crowd is expected Saturday and the Tigers will get an opportunity of showing the graduates what they can do.

WESTERN LEAGUE.
Omaha 8, Topeka 6.
Lincoln 8, Sioux City 2.
Pueblo 8, Des Moines 3.

AIRSHIP OF THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY

(Copyright by Daily Graphic, London. Used by permission.)

View of the great dirigible, which has just left the shed of Messrs. Vickers, Ltd., Barrow-in-Furness, and is awaiting her trimming trials.

AWAIT TEST FLIGHT OF BRITISH NAVY'S DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIP

BARROW-IN-FURNESS—The naval airship, which has aroused so much curiosity owing to the fact that she is the first dirigible to take her place as an asset to the British navy, has now definitely left her shed at Barrow and lies moored to a buoy in the Cavendish dock.

The hull is fully 512 feet in length, with a bow which in comparison with the stern is slightly blunt. The height is 48 feet and the framework of the hull is so arranged as to be 12-sided, and it is in the framework that the 17 balloons are placed, each one being in a separate compartment. The envelope is made of duralumin, an alloy which has the appearance of aluminum, and almost the strength of steel, and is sheathed entirely with a special fabric, both waterproof and gas tight. The color of the hull is of a silver-gray, with a yellow tint on the lower side. The airship is inflated with hydrogen and contains 706,330 cubic feet of gas and is able to lift a load of 21 tons.

The two boat-shaped cars or gondolas are 25 feet in length and each contains a 200-horsepower Wolseley-Siddeley engine. Fitted to the bow gondola are two four-bladed propellers and in the stern gondola is a single two-bladed propeller. The two gondolas are connected by a covered-in passage and will carry a crew of nine men each. The control of the airship is effected by vertical and horizontal rudders which give the impression of box kites. Her speed is expected to be from 40 to 50 miles an hour.

The crew of the dirigible will consist of two petty officers, two engineers and three able seamen, one of whom is a good photographer. The commanding officer is Lieut. N. F. Osborne, with Lieutenant Talbot as second in command.

ANGLO-CANADIAN SHIP CONSTRUCTION FIRM
TO BE IN SYDNEY, N. S.

LONDON.—A British-Canadian ship-building company, with a subscribed capital of $10,000,000, has been organized to build warships and merchant vessels at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

Grant Hugh Brown of 115 Broadway, New York, is said to be the organizer and Sir Henry Pellet of Toronto the chairman.

The board of directors includes Lieutenant-Governor Gibson of Ontario and Sir Charles Ellis, chairman of the John Brown Company of Clydebank, builders of the Lusitania.

Mr. Brown declares that the company has bid for the construction of Canada's four armored cruisers and six destroyers. "If we are successful in obtaining the Canadian government's contract, which will be for more than $15,000,000, the mere sending of a cablegram to Sydney will start operations at once," he said, and continued:

"The shipyard will have 11 building slips, eight of which will be able to take in the biggest dreadnought. The dry dock will be 1040 feet long by 110 wide. "The plant as planned will be one of the largest in the world. Its estimated cost is $6,000,000."

SYSTEM OF DOCKS
PROPOSED IN '81
LIKE 1911 PLAN

The present plan for the development of the port of Boston by the utilization of the East Boston waterfront for an extensive system of docks with railroad connections, is almost identical with the plan proposed in 1881 by the late James Alexander, who for many years was the Boston representative of the Cunard steamship company.

Mr. Alexander saw that the logical plan for extending the docking facilities of Boston was the employment of the flats at East Boston and the dredging of a channel of sufficient depth for ocean steamships.

So interested was Mr. Alexander in the project that he organized a corporation, the East Haven Company, and procured a charter from the Legislature giving the corporation the right to buy land, acquire the interest of other companies, construct docks and dig a channel to the proposed docks. The capital of the company was fixed at not less than $250,000 nor more than $3,000,000.

The plan was developed no further.

OF WEAVING WORK

Weaving of cloth and baskets is to be more fully taken up at the Gardner colony, said Mrs. L. A. Greene, director of industry for the department of women, today. Mrs. Greene is in charge of the exhibition now going on daily between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. at 5 Park street, and Sunday between 2 p. m. and 6 p. m.

"A gradual and remarkable improvement in the inmates at the colony is secured by instructing them from simple work to occupations that are more involved," said Mrs. Greene.

"Though at first those who are sent to the colony may be indifferent toward all efforts at securing their attention in some useful occupation, as time goes on they become really interested in the work."

There are many buildings in the group, first the administration building, receiving buildings for men and women, two industrial buildings, machine shop, power house and paint shop, then the numerous cottages, containing from 12 to 100 persons. The colony covers 1700 acres of rough rocky land, near Mt. Wachusett, of which 135 acres have been cultivated.

There are two directors of industry, Mrs. L. A. Greene for the women, and Albert Darling for the men. Each has three assistants. The cottages are made as homelike as possible. There are 238 women and 431 men in the home.

Table covers, rugs, fancy basket work, wearing apparel of all kinds, brooms, brushes, elaborate needle work, wood carvings, beaten brass, and in fact almost everything that is worn or used has samples at the exhibition made by the members of the Gardner colony.

BRITISH CORONATION REHEARSALS SHOW ORDER OF CEREMONY

LONDON—The coronation preliminaries are occupying much of the attention of the officials who have the ceremonial in hand.

There was a rehearsal of the procession from Buckingham palace to Westminster abbey on Thursday, and later a rehearsal of a portion of the coronation ceremony in the abbey.

This was attended by the Duke of Norfolk, the earl marshal and an array of peers and peeresses, who will be engaged in the principal roles in the actual ceremony, including Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener and Lord Rosebery.

King George on Thursday appointed Baron Sandhurst civil attaché, and Lieut. Col. Bernard R. James, formerly British military attaché at Washington, and Capt. C. F. G. The weather continues fine, and thousands of people watch the arrival and departure of notable personages.

At the Crystal Palace Thursday afternoon, Prince Arthur of Connaught formally opened "The Pageant of London," which proved a gorgeous spectacle, illustrative of London's history.

Social functions in connection with the coronation, for the benefit of various charities or for the entertainment of visitors, are daily becoming more numerous.

The Duke and Duchess of Roxburgh entertained the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia at a dinner and dance at Chesterfield house on Thursday night.

The dinner was attended by 30 guests, but the dance brought together a large and brilliant assembly. Several of the colonial premiers attended the "at home" given by Mrs. Reid, wife of the American ambassador.

NATION IS LOOKING UP SAYS JUSTICE HARLAN IN NEW YORK HOUSE

SEEKS TO REGAIN RUSSELL LAND

ALBANY, N. Y.—"Never before at any time in the history of our country is it more certain than that a public man consults the interests of his people and is guided alone by what are the best interests of the people."

With these words Justice John M. Harlan of the United States supreme court, Thursday told the members of the Assembly that he has no faith in the predictions that the country is approaching serious times. He also said that while there were more men of doubtful character in public life now than heretofore, it was due to the fact that the country is larger.

Charles W. Dimock of Somerville, trustee of the estate of Joseph G. Russell of Boston, has filed a petition in the office of the clerk of courts in East Cambridge against the mayor, board of aldermen and common council of the city of Cambridge, seeking to have set aside the transfer of land made in connection with the extension of Waverly street.

He alleged that on May 24, 1910, an order passed both branches of the city government for taking the land. He says Acting Mayor Edward B. James had no right or authority to sign the order. The petition is returnable July 7.

The public works and finance committee of the board of aldermen is considering an ordinance which transfers the control of the public school buildings from the board of aldermen to the school committee.

EXPECTS POLITICS TO DEFEAT THREE-MAN HARBOR PLAN

"Although a three-man harbor board appears the best for development of the water front of Boston it is probable that the board will be authorized by the Legislature to contain 5 members on account of political interests in connection with the project," said Henry C. Long today, a member of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange who went on the trip this week to Montreal to inspect the harbor facilities of that port.

"The trip convinced those who went that there should be a special board on Boston harbor development apart from the general state commission that looks after all the water front facilities of the state. The pressing need of Boston harbor for development will require all the thought of this special board in order that there may be a development adequate to the needs of commerce and the possibilities of this port."

The three man board is considered the best formation of such a commission by the trade development committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

FASHIONS AND THE HOUSEHOLD

MORNING GOWN WITH JACKET

Big collar gives it dressy appearance.

MORNING gowns that are made with jackets are always comfortable and satisfactory. This one is rendered dressy by means of the big collar and is in every way attractive as well as practical. It is finished with a peplum that dispenses with all bulk over the hips. The skirt is plain and seven-gored. It can be finished with habit back or inverted plaits. This one is cut off at the natural waist line and attached to a belt, but if the skirt is to be utilized in combination with a blouse, in place of a jacket, it can be extended above the waist line, if preferred. Ring dotted batiste is the material illustrated and the trimming is simple banding, but such gowns as this can be made from any simple seasonable material. For immediate wear, washable fabrics are those in demand, but the model is just as desirable for challis, albatross and the like, of cooler weather.

For the medium size the jacket will require 3½ yards of material 27 inches wide, 2½ yards 36 or 2¼ yards 44 inches wide, with 2½ yards of banding and 3 yards of edging; for the skirt will be needed 6½ yards 27, 3¾ yards 36 or 3½ yards 44 inches wide, if material has no up and down, but if there is figure or nap 5½ yards 36 or 5½ yards 44 inches wide will be needed with 2¾ yards of banding for the trimming.

A pattern of the jacket or negligee (7029), sizes 34 to 44 inches bust, or of the skirt (6955), sizes 22 to 34 waist, can be had at any May Mantion agency or will be sent by mail. Address 132 East Twenty-third street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

MODES IN BRIEF

White woollens are expected to be very good for both town and country wear.

New white buckskin shoes have silver buckles on them in place of bows.

Coarse torchon lace trims some of the finest gowns of the year and is also used on the new hats.

Woven fabrics are used for some of the new summer shoes while pongee pumps are also being shown this year, with stockings of the same tint.

Hats of woven black or cream colored hemp have big Charlotte Corday crowns of open work, embroidery in colors, and are without any other trimming.

A combination of flat venise lace on heavy fillet net is beautiful and modish; and so are darned filets, especially a new variety in brilliantly colored oriental designs on ceru net.—Montreal Star.

WEALTH OF BLOUSE MATERIAL

Other good fabrics beside silk and linen.

ASK nine women out of ten what materials would be suitable for a separate blouse for summer wear and they will answer, "Sheer linen and summer silk, and—I can't think of any more." Yet I have seen six dainty and stylish blouses eminently suitable for afternoon wear in summer, and no two were of the same material, says a fashion writer for a New York paper.

The first was of white mull, which stays clean a long time and then washes well; and it was trimmed with a square yoke of wide dotted batiste, so deep that it reached nearly to the waist, where the two edges were finished off by a row of two buttons each, in the shade of the dotted goods (preferably black) edged with white braid. Two more sets of buttons adorned the front of the waist, which was plaited in two rows of three plaits each, and a third, between them, of about twice that width. The Pierrot collar and cuffs were tucked mull, finished at both edges by narrow bands of the batiste. The whole was cool and really charming.

The second waist, which was more elaborate, was of china silk, in a colored pin stripe. The blouse was laced across in front with inch-and-a-half-wide ribbon of the same color, caught by silk-covered buttons. The waist was deeply plaited to permit of this effect. There were a wide flounce collar and cuffs of tucked tulle, edged with ribbon, with an additional band of ribbon below the Dutch-cut neck. The tulle gave an especially summery appearance, and looked well with the soft silk.

Soutache braid was combined with tulle to trim the blouse of striped taffeta, the tulle forming a flounce down the left side, and also widely flounced collar and cuffs, the former finished with the braid. The braid was applied in two double rows to the right of the side flounce, as well, and on the long upper cuffs. Three large crocheted buttons, black, like the braid, fastened the flounce opening.

Simple and yet dressy was the combination of natural-colored pongee and Persian silk. The blouse had half-length sleeves, with collars and cuffs tucked as in the former models, and was plaited broadly down the front. The Persian silk formed a narrow border for cuffs and collar, and made a knotted tie, in jabot fashion, at the neck.

A simple blouse in striped summer silk

SMART TIES

Ties of narrow velvet, edged with tiny satin flowers, continue in favor, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

One to be worn with a lingerie blouse is made of an inch-wide strip of Irish crochet. It rounds the neck, crosses in front, and falls to the bust in round ends. The crossing is held by a bunch of pink satin roses and green leaves, while a wreath outlines each end.

A jabot is made of plaited white net finished with quarter inch hem at side and an inch hem at the bottom, with a half inch band of pink mull or other mercerized material, on which are worked white coin dots in satin stitch.

A smart tie to wear with turned down linen collar is made of a narrow insertion of Irish crochet tied in a double stiff bow with strapped knot, and the two ends falling well below the bust line, where they are finished in fringe or crocheted pendants.

TRIED RECIPES

STEWART CHEESE.

FILL a baking dish with alternate layers of salt crackers and grated cheese. Use a soft cheese. Cover all with milk, a little butter, paprika, and celery salt. Let it stand half an hour. Then bake and serve hot.

MACARONI A LA RABBIT.

Two tablespoons melted butter, two tablespoons flour. Mix well and gradually add three fourths of a cup of cream, three fourths of a cup of strained tomato, to which has been added one eighth of a teaspoon of soda. Then add two cups soft American cheese, grated, and two eggs slightly beaten. Season with salt, paprika and cayenne. Pour hot over cooked macaroni.

HANDY SALAD DRESSING.

Take the yolks of four eggs, two table-spoonfuls of flour, one-half cupful each of sugar and milk, four teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, a dash of cayenne, butter the size of an egg, and two teaspoonfuls of mustard. Mix thoroughly and cook to the consistency of a boiled custard. In the meantime have on the stove a cupful of good vinegar. Pour boiling vinegar into the custard, stirring constantly until thoroughly mixed. This will keep a month and is handy when company comes in unexpectedly. Thin it a little with either sweet or sour cream and add more sugar, salt or pepper according to the kind of material used for the body of the salad. It makes good chicken, lobster, shrimp, cabbage, lettuce and potato salad and used with leftover scraps of boiled ham makes nice sandwiches.

APPLE MARSHMALLOW PIE.

Cover a deep pie pan with rich crust; into this place regularly good cooking apples, cut in thin slices; sift a little flour over first, then a third cup of sugar, a teaspoon of butter, two table-spoonfuls of water. When the apples are done cut a cup of marshmallows in thin slices (with scissors) and cover the top and return to the oven until they are brown.

STRAWBERRY TARTS.

The whites of six eggs beaten stiff; add two cups of granulated sugar and beat 20 minutes; add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Bake in a spring form with greased paper at bottom, in slow oven, for one hour. When cold put a thick layer of whipped cream on top, then a layer of whole strawberries, another layer of cream, and decorate top with a few berries.—Denver Times.

LITTLE HELPS

Before putting bread into pans see that the pans are well larded. This will prevent breaking the crusts when the loaves are taken out.

To prevent salt from caking, add a little cornmeal and keep in a dry place.

While you are in the kitchen baking bread or anything that requires a long time you can do some mending, like sewing on buttons or mending hose.

It is a good plan to soak dried fruits in cold water or slightly warm water before cooking. Then put on the stove and cook slowly.—Montreal Star.

CHENILLE COATS

The latest French and English fashions are evening coats and wraps of knitted chenille in bright colors, says the New York Press. These are made after regular models in the latest style, with diagonal stripes of fancy raised knitting, large buttons to match, enormous directoire revers, etc. The sailor collar and the deep cuffs are done in a daisy or star pattern, either loosely knitted or crocheted in solid wool. Sometimes there is a border of the white also, with the revers made to match.

REAL COST OF FAMILY'S FOOD

Depends on true value of things eaten.

FROM one fourth to one half of the average family's income is spent for food. The increase in price of almost all foods in the last few years has resulted either in an increase in the amount spent for food or a decrease in the amount of food purchased. Why not try to apply the rules for "increased efficiency" and "conservation" to this question of food supply in order to obtain a larger return for the money expended?

The "leaks" in the food supply are in careless and unseasonable buying; in wasteful and poor cooking; in thoughtless use of fuel, and in ignorance of the real value of food, says the Youths Companion.

Ten cents spent for one quart of milk actually supplies almost three times as much food as the same sum expended in eggs at 36 cents a dozen, and supplies it in a better form. Ten cents for bread furnishes three and one half times as much as the quart of milk. Compared with meat, at present prices, milk again is found a more economical and a less wasteful food.

The price of meat is determined by the demand for certain cuts, and by the tenderness and the flavor of those cuts. Pound for pound, the flank and the porterhouse steak furnish the same amount of nutrients—but the prices of the two are far different.

Bacon at 30 cents a pound is considered too expensive by many, but that pound of bacon contains just 2½ times the fuel value that the pound of round or loin steak does, provided all the fat is not fried out of it and thrown away.

Not until you know the real value of nuts can you decide between buying nuts in the shell or shelled. Almonds in the shell retail for 20 cents a pound on the average, and shelled almonds sell for 60. The pound of nuts in the shell will furnish in actual nutriment more than one half as much as the pound of shelled nuts—at one third the cost.

With English walnuts, however, the case is not the same, which shows the unevenness and untrustworthiness of market prices in relation to food value. English walnuts in the shell at 20 to 30 cents furnish less food value in proportion than the shelled nuts at 50 or even 70 cents a pound.

Butter at 35 cents a pound supplies more than twice the value of cream at 20 cents a pint.

In the substitution of eggs for meat many persons are misled, because they depend upon the satisfaction of the appetite alone as the guide to supplying the table. One egg, costing 2½ or 3 cents, may satisfy the appetite, but 3 cents' worth of steak gives nearly twice as much in nutritive value. One slice of bacon carefully broiled, and costing about 1 cent, supplies one fourth more than the egg costing 2 or 3 cents.

With bread at 5 cents a pound and potatoes at 75 cents a bushel the bread is decidedly more advantageous through the quality of food furnished.

One small banana is equal to one very large orange or two small apples. Prices of fresh fruits are variable, but at average market prices the apple is cheaper than the banana and the banana is correspondingly cheaper than the orange.

WORK OF SERVANTS OUTLINED

How their duties are divided in modern household.

As a rule, a regular costume is chosen by the mistress as the suitable dress for her various maids. The dress worn by most of the maids in the morning is of pretty colored cotton print, with collars and cuffs of heavy linen, an apron and a cap. In the afternoon the housemaids, mistress and parlor-maid put on plain dresses made of black woolen goods, turnover cuffs of white linen, a linen collar, a cap with a black bow and, of course, an apron.

A lady's maid does not wear a print gown. Her regular livery in winter is a simple black dress, small ornamental apron, a tiny cap or bow may be worn, but this is not necessary, heavy linen collar and cuffs or turn over cuffs and collar of thin linen hemstitched. In summer she may wear all white or a black skirt and white shirtwaist made very simply.

The duties of the servants vary somewhat in different households, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. But to give a general idea: The housemaids care for all the rooms except those on the drawing-room floor. They clean the windows, sweep, dust, etc., and have charge of the bed-linen.

Where a waitress is employed, the housemaid is her assistant when necessary, or takes her place when she goes out. The butler has charge of the whole drawing-room floor unless assisted by a parlor maid or second man. He waits upon the front door all day, or if he has an assistant for the table and its appointments—that the silver is well polished and the table attractively set and served. He brings the afternoon tea to his mistress, and he is frequently entrusted with the care of the wines. He sometimes serves in some measure as a valet for his master.

A butler is called by his last name, the under footmen by their christian names. They all should be clean-shaven and scrupulously neat in their dress. In the morning the butler may wear a black suit with jacket, or a Tuxedo coat and low waistcoat, with black tie. No jewelry can be worn, no watch chain visible, and the studs and sleeve-buttons must be of plain mother-of-pearl. If there are guests at luncheon he must change his costume for that worn when serving dinner—a swallowtail coat, black waistcoat and white tie. Even when there is a parlor maid or second man a butler usually waits alone on the table at breakfast and luncheon unless there are guests.

The duties of a waitress are the same as those of a butler, except that the waiting is not expected of her.

The place of a butler or waitress in the dining room is behind the chair of the mistress when not occupied in serving.

A parlor maid or second man is the butler's assistant. They do the sweeping, take care of the pantry, answer the door bell in the morning, attend to the cleaning of the vestibule and front steps, etc., and aid in serving the meals when required.

The second man's afternoon livery is, as a rule, a coat of some dark color, cut somewhat like a dress coat and adorned with brass or silver buttons, a striped or colored waistcoat, trousers to match the coat with a stripe on each side of same material as waistcoat.

A valet is his master's body servant. He cares for his wardrobe and waits on him in every way. A valet wears a sack suit of dark tweed or serge.

A page or "buttons" waits upon the door, runs errands and sometimes appears on the box of the carriage. His livery is the "buttons" suit. The name comes from the 19 bullet-shaped buttons used on the coat.

EARLY CLUB

Delving into the history of women's clubs, prominent Indiana women assert, has disclosed that Indiana can boast of having had the first organization of that kind in America. The club which is credited with being the forerunner of the thousands of such societies that engage women's attention today was the Minerva Club, founded in New Harmony, Ind., in 1859. Mrs. Constance Owen Fauntleroy Runcie, 75 years old, who lives in St. Joseph, Mo., was the founder and relates an interesting history of the club. It met weekly and the 13 charter members continued the gathering until the civil war. The house in which the Minerva Club was founded is still standing and is pointed out to visitors as the Fauntleroy house, "the home of the first fully organized women's club, with a constitution and full corps of officers."—Pittsburgh Sun.

USE STALE BREAD

Do not throw the scraps of bread into the garbage can or swill barrel. Take stale bread and put in water to soak over night. Mash well next morning, add a little flour, salt, a little sugar, three eggs, a pinch of soda and stir well together; have your pan well greased, and hot, and with a spoon dipped in water lift the stiff batter out by spoonfuls, dropping into the hot pan, and bake immediately in a rather hot oven.

Or the scraps may be used in batter cakes, or in a dish of tomatoes, or rolled and used on top of meats. There are many ways, if one would only study them up.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

It surely does pay, and pays tremendously. It is one of the greatest single business-building agencies of modern times. Results that the right kind of advertising will bring in the future will be stupendous. The Monitor is interested in the right kind of advertising now; that is, clean and honest advertising. That is the only kind the Monitor considers. So the legitimate advertiser does not have to compete with questionable offerings in the Monitor. The Monitor has ample testimony that advertising in it has brought gratifying results. Its own experience in using its paper for its own publicity has likewise shown conclusively that the right kind of advertising in the right medium certainly does pay.

MOTORING VEILS

Among other pretty little conceits of the hour is a new automobile veil ready to put on and fasten in a twinkling. It is made of chiffon cloth shirred across the front to shape it, run through with elastic, and furnished with a button and loop at opposite ends of the shirring. The veil is arranged from the back and brought forward where the button and loop secure it around the neck and over the face portion, so that the wind has no chance with it.

Another practical veil, three yards long and more than a yard wide, has a wide satin border all around. Veils of this particular character usually come in combinations of black and color, the border being of the black satin.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SAVE THE PARINGS

What do you do with the parings? The lemon peel, orange peel, or the skins of apples and pears? Throw them out, don't you? And yet there are many dainty goodies that can be made from them, says the Louisville Herald.

Lemon and orange peel, for instance, should be cut into shreds with a sharp knife and boiled until tender in clear water. Then they should be drained and cooked in sugar and water until transparent. Take from the syrup, drain slightly once more, dust thickly with powdered sugar, and you have a cheap

RIBBON SLIPPERS

A novel idea for slippers is to make them of ribbon, especially of the charming flowered or pompadour ribbons. They are easy to make, and are dainty and pretty with a flowered kimono. The same color should be chosen and the same flower design.

Buy a pair of soles in your shoe size and enough ribbon to go around them, and make a bow for each. For cold weather the soles should be of lamb's wool; for warm weather those that are covered with a thinner smooth material. The ribbon should be of three inches width. First sew one edge of the ribbon all around the sole, beginning at the back. Next gather the other edge of the ribbon across the front, so as to form the toe part of a slipper, and fasten the gathers firmly. From these gathers turn down the upper edge of the ribbon until the sides and back of the slipper are the right height and sew it over, inclosing a piece of very narrow elastic, which is fastened tight at each end and holds the slipper in place on the foot. Finish with a bow of the ribbon over the front gathers.—New Era.

candy or garnish for your desserts. The grated rind of lemon may be dried and mixed with an equal quantity of granulated sugar for a flavoring. Pack in airtight bottles.

PLAN TO IMPROVE CAPE COD HOTELS

At a meeting of the directors of the Cape Cod Hotel Men's Association in Tremont Temple Thursday, it was voted to hold a convention of Cape Cod hotel proprietors at Sagamore Beach June 27 to discuss methods of improving the service at the hotels.

All the members present reported the biggest bookings for July they have ever known. Many are coming to the cape this summer from St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Chicago. For the benefit of automobilists a lithographed road map will be issued next month to show the macadamized roads from Plymouth to Provincetown and the ponds and lakes where good fishing may be had and the location of all the leading hotels.

CUSTOMS WATCH FOR CASTRO.

KINGSTON, Jam. — The customs authorities here are keeping a strict watch for Castro, the former president of Venezuela, who is being watched by the United States government. They held up the bishop of Limon on his arrival under the belief that he was Castro in disguise.

CLASSIFY TACOMA ROSES.

TACOMA, Wash. — Classification of roses for the holding of Tacoma's rose show, together with other arrangements for the show this year, has been made by the Tacoma Rose Society. The show is to be held June 16 and 17.

GOVERNOR DENIES LABOR'S REQUEST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — A request of national labor organization leaders that he investigate the alleged illegal removal from the state of John J. McNamara, charged with complicity in the Los Angeles explosion case, was denied by Governor Marshall on Thursday.

Governor Marshall said the requisition for McNamara was presented to him regularly for his signature, and that if it had been illegally obtained by false representations to the Governor of California it was proper that an investigation should be begun by that official and not by him.

MADISON SQUARE SALE CONFIRMED

NEW YORK — The sale of Madison Square Garden, opened 21 years ago this month, and which has since become known as New York's biggest indoor arena, to a syndicate is confirmed today. The garden will give way to a commercial building, 25 stories high. The price paid is said to be $3,500,000.

The new building will be a quadrangle with a great court in the center. Roughly estimated, the new building project, including the cost of the land, is expected to represent the investment of about $12,000,000.

VISITORS ON A SAIL UP NORTH SHORE AND BACK TO NANTASKET

Party Will Leave Beach in Time to Take Four O'Clock Train for Springfield to Banquet This Evening.

TO TOUR BERKSHIRES

PROGRAM FOR SATURDAY.
 Last day of the convention; tour of western Massachusetts.
 The party will leave Springfield in automobiles for a 30-mile ride through the Berkshire hills, Stockbridge and Lenox, to Pittsfield, stopping en route for luncheon. Dinner at Pittsfield.
 Disband Saturday night. Boston and eastern New England members returning to Boston by special train, and other parties going north, west and south.

A growing enthusiasm in regard to the proposed trip to Europe by the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association of the United States and Canada was in evidence early today as a big party of members set off on the steamboat at Rowes wharf for a harbor trip, which is expected to prove one of the most jolly features of the program of this thirty-second annual convention. The visitors sailed up the north shore to Eastern point and back to Nantasket beach for a clam bake at Paragon park.

The boom for the European trip began Thursday when the members were being entertained by J. Reed Whipple at New Boston, N. H., but it was at its height on the sailing trip today.

The opinion seemed unanimous that a convention in Europe in 1912 or 1913 would just suit the association. It is known that the hotel proprietors abroad are interested in the proposed trip and are eager to extend the warm hand-clasp in hospitality.

The party will leave Nantasket beach in time to catch the 4 p. m. train from Boston for Springfield, where a banquet will be served at the Hotel Kimball.

A party of 410 members of the association was entertained all day Thursday by J. Reed Whipple of the Touraine, the Parker and Youngs hotels, at his model farm at New Boston, N. H.

About one third of the party were women. When the train arrived at its destination in Hillsboro county, 70 odd miles from Boston and about 17 miles west of Manchester, the visitors were welcomed by a salute fired from the "Molly Stark," a brass cannon captured from the British at the battle of Bennington by General Stark and presented by him to the artillery company of the town. The fire company also turned out in uniform.

The women were received at the big farmhouse by Mrs. Sellers, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Staples and Miss Hammond. After a short rest and view of the scenery the visitors were shown around Valley View farm.

The estate contains about 3000 acres on which are kept 350 cows and about 500 head of younger stock, 27 horses, about 600 hogs and more than that number of pigs and thousands of hens and chickens. There are big orchards and 40 men are employed.

C. M. Hart of the Touraine, E. E. Staples and P. H. Sherwin of the Parker house and W. H. Sellers, J. L. Walker and B. J. Igo of Young's prepared the luncheon, having under their direction the chef of the Touraine and seven cooks, the head waiter at Young's and 70 other waiters.

Tables were set in the big hay barn, the dimensions of which are 100x40 feet.

Members of the fire department and townspeople were invited in, and altogether about 650 people were fed. Music was furnished by an orchestra stationed in an improvised balcony in a corner of the barn.

Visiting hotel men of long experience from all over the country were surprised that Mr. Whipple had been able to provide such a feast 75 miles away from his base of supplies. E. M. Tierney, an ex-president of the association, speaking for the New York hotel men, complimented Mr. Whipple and moved that he be made an honorary member of the association, a distinction conferred upon only one other man during the 32 years' existence of the association. This was done by a rising vote. The other honorary member is George C. Boldt of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

On their return to Boston in the evening the party divided, some attending Keith's theater and others the Tremont theater.

FORMER YALE TACKLE WEDS.

YONKERS, N. Y. — Miss Helen Whit-tier Andrus, daughter of Congressman John E. Andrus, was married in St. George's church, New York, Thursday afternoon to Henry H. Hobbs of Springfield, Mass. The bridegroom was famous as left tackle of the Yale eleven in 1908 and 1909. Miss Andrus is a graduate of Lasell seminary at Auburndale, Mass. The young couple took an evening train for Boston.

SPEAKER WALKER'S SON UPSET.

PRESIDENT URGES NICARAGUA PACT

WASHINGTON — The proposed treaty between the United States and Nicaragua, providing for the refunding of the debt of the Central American republic, was transmitted to the Senate by President Taft, with a special message strongly urging immediate and favorable action.

Immediate consideration was asked also for the Honduran treaty which has been pending in the Senate since last session. The Nicaragua pact, which with the message was read without comment in the Senate in executive session, was referred to the committee on foreign relations, which will meet today to consider both treaty documents.

YALE RECEIVES $42,000 IN GIFTS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — Announcement was made at Yale University today that Prof. Francis E. Loomis of London, Eng., Yale '64, gave $20,000 to be devoted to aid original research. A further gift of $10,000 towards the endowment of the university clinic was announced and also several gifts, totaling $12,000, to the Peruvian exploration fund.

FALLS FROM ROLLER COASTER.

Oscar F. Young passed away early today as the result of injuries received by falling from a car at the Derby roller coaster at Revere beach last night. He was treasurer of the company and was riding on the train of three cars as a guard. The selectmen held a special meeting and revoked the company's license.

PRESIDENT TO CARRY RECIPROCITY CONTEST INTO SENATE ITSELF

WASHINGTON — President Taft returned from New York today, where at a dinner on the night before he had made an earnest argument on the necessity of the Senate passing the Canadian reciprocity bill without amendment, to find that in his absence the Senate finance committee had voted, 10 to 4, to report the bill on Tuesday with the Root amendment and without recommendation.

Senator Lodge's open advocacy of this amendment recently had prepared the President in measure to expect this action and he will now take his contest for an unamended bill to the open Senate where there is every indication that he will win.

Senator Root's amendment provides that wood pulp, paper and board shall not be admitted free of duty into the United States from Canada until these products are admitted free from this country into every province of Canada.

Preceding the vote to report the bill this amendment was adopted by the committee by a vote of 8 to 6. Those opposing it were Senators Penrose, Cullom and McCumber (Republicans), and Stone, Williams and Kern (Democrats).

Mr. Taft Urges Bill

NEW YORK — Speaking at a dinner tendered by the New York Produce Exchange to the Interstate Cottonseed Crushers' Association at the hotel Astor on Thursday night, President Taft in urging the passage of the reciprocity bill by the Senate unamended, pointed to the advantage of southern truck farmers from the free admission of fruits and vegetables.

He argued that while the treaty has in it provisions peculiarly beneficial to various branches of industries, farming and manufacturing, in different sections, the effect of the treaty as a whole was certain to be of the highest usefulness to the country at large, and would increase rapidly a trade that now exceeded $300,000,000 into figures double that sum.

"The treaty has opponents, however," he said, "vigorous, active and vociferous; and the arguments against it, and the means taken to defeat it, are not always of a direct character. Whether the farmers' free list is a measure which ought to be passed is a question on the merits of that bill, and ought to be determined upon consideration wholly apart from the merits of the Canadian reciprocity."

Action Pleases Canada

OTTAWA, Ont. — The reporting of the reciprocity agreement by the United States Senate committee was heard with satisfaction at Ottawa. The Root amendment to the pulp and paper clause in no way injures the pact from the Canadian point of view.

SAVE GAS TANKS IN WALTHAM FIRE

WALTHAM, Mass. — Fire from unknown causes this forenoon destroyed the barn and 60 tons of hay belonging to the Waltham Coal Company. The damage was $7000, partially covered by insurance. All the city apparatus was called out.

The sparks showered the tanks of the Newton & Waltham Gas Company, but the firemen prevented damage. The fire brigade of the Waltham Watch Company protected the roof of the company's tool house. Three firemen fell on the ground from a ladder, and Lieut. Howard Walker of Hose 1 was slightly injured.

FORMOSA REBELS AMBUSH JAPANESE

VICTORIA, B. C. — News is brought by the steamer Kamakura Maru of the annihilation on May 8 of a Japanese force of 40 men by means of an ambush in Formosa by the rebels against whom the Japanese have been campaigning for the last three years.

It seems that three tribes which made peace were incited to fresh rebellion by two tribes which remained obdurate.

REPORT RACE TRACK BILLS.

ALBANY, N. Y. — Favorable action was taken Thursday by the Senate codes committee on the two so-called race track bills, enactment of which into law would insure racing this summer at the big tracks which otherwise will be closed, probably permanently. The committee reported the bills out. This action carries with it the recommendation that the Senate pass them.

DIAMOND IMPORTATION $43,000,000.

NEW YORK — Importation of diamonds and other precious stones through the local port for the fiscal year that will end June 30 is estimated at nearly $43,000,000. With one exception it is the largest on record.

STAY RUSSELL WILL ARGUMENT.

It was expected that an argument would take place before Judge Lawton in the East Cambridge probate court today in the Russell will case, but owing to several other cases being ahead of it on the list, it went over to June 21.

NAVAL ACADEMY SQUADRON WELL OFF ON LONG TRIP

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — According to wireless the 3 battleships composing the Naval Academy summer practice squadron, are well off the Atlantic coast, on the first leg of one of the longest cruises ever taken under the direction of the academy authorities.

The destination is Queenstown, Ireland, and the whole cruise will cover about 10,000 miles. The squadron, under Commander R. E. Coontz, left Annapolis Monday morning and is due to arrive at Queenstown June 19.

The other points to be visited are Kiel, Germany; Bergen, Norway and Gibraltar.

ANIMAL DUTY TO BE REPEALED

WASHINGTON — Immediate steps are to be taken to remedy the condition arising from a recent customs court ruling requiring duty to be paid on domestic animals belonging to citizens of the United States which are taken out and brought back again.

Mr. McVeigh, secretary of the treasury, and Chairman Underwood, of the House ways and means committee, have conferred with the result that the latter will introduce a bill to overcome this interpretation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

INQUIRY SUDDENLY BEGUN BY U. S. INTO COKE INDUSTRY

PITTSBURGH — A federal investigation into the affairs of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company of this city, to ascertain whether an attempt has been made to establish a monopoly in the coking industry, is on here today before a special session of the May grand jury, which was hurriedly reassembled.

The inquiry is an outgrowth of the congressional inquiry into the United States Steel Corporation. A coal deal, amounting to $18,000,000, which is nearing consummation between the steel corporation and the coal companies, will figure prominently in the investigation, it is said.

The investigation is being conducted by John H. Jordan, United States district attorney, and Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to Attorney General Wickensham.

E. J. Taylor, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was the first and only witness called on Thursday. Attorney Grosvenor arrived here from Washington, where he conferred with Attorney General Wickensham, it is said. He at once had a long talk with District Attorney Jordan.

RATIONAL GOLF

By JASON ROGERS.

The modern lively rubber ball has unquestionably produced radical changes in the style of play of the game.

Many a poorly executed stroke today gets reward entirely out of keeping with its deserts from the wonderfully elastic and bounding qualities of the ball.

In the days of the solid guttie, nothing short of an accurately timed stroke delivered with mathematical precision would accomplish a long drive straight down the course.

Today, with a lively ball, often nicknamed the "Bouncing Billy," a badly topped shot will often roll and jump over hazards that would have quickly stopped the solid guttie.

In the olden days the ball was more swept from the tee than hit, as at present, and the long, full St. Andrews swing was sought by all that desired to attain proficiency.

Nowadays there appears to be a change of style toward the upright and shortened swing, which produces equally good, if not better, results than the longer one, and is easier to control.

It is not an unusual sight to see two players get equally good results from a tee, each using radically different methods, and yet going on hole after hole, and week after week, doing the same thing.

The lesson of this is obvious that golf with the modern implements, both in respect to club and ball, is a different game to what it used to be, and that the highest reward comes to the player who can most accurately command their use.

In the olden days all balls were practically made of one standard regarding size and of the same material. Nowadays there are midgets and juniors, and

PURCHASE VALUE OF PANAMA CANAL PUT AT $42,799,826

WASHINGTON—Copies of the Canal Record, the official newspaper of the Panama canal commission, which have reached Washington, contain the report of a new appraisal of the canal property acquired by this government from the French company, by which the value of the American purchase is placed at $2,799,826 more than the $40,000,000 which President Roosevelt paid for it under the direction of Congress.

In the original estimate no separate account was taken of buildings. Of the 2148 buildings turned over by the French, 1536 have been repaired and are in use, and the total value put on the lot is $2,054,203.

Another new item is that of lands which the French company had purchased from private holders, and which this government would have had to purchase similarly. On the basis of what the United States has paid for other private lands the committee appraises these at $1,000,000.

The new committee also figures that the use of the old French channel from Balboa to deep water, which is not a part of the American canal, has been worth at least $500,000 to the canal commission, and that what the French did in roadmaking was worth another $100,000.

Thus the new appraisal is:

Excavation	$25,380,240
Panama Railroad stock	9,644,320
Maps, drawings and records	2,000,000
Material and equipment	2,112,063
Buildings	2,054,203
Lands	1,000,000
Use of Pacific ship channel	500,000
Roadmaking and clearing	100,000
Total	$42,799,826

RARE IRVING COPY IS SOLD FOR $90

Prolonged Cheering Greets Speech of Chancellor in Favor of Bill, but Critics Say It Is Blow to Prussia.

REICHSTAG FILLED

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)
BERLIN—The turn takes in the question of the Alsace-Lorraine constitution has filled liberal-minded people with satisfaction.

The home rule bill, with its many generous concessions, has adopted a very different shape from that first anticipated. Owing to the decided front made against the form of plural voting by the Socialists and Radicals, from the onset, the Reichstag will not have the one-man, one-vote system in addition to the greatly desired concession of the three votes in the Bundesrat.

The cause of rejoicing among the Liberal parties is the favorable effect that the democratic character of the Reichsland constitution will, it is confidently believed, exercise upon Prussian politics in the not too remote future.

The Reichstag was crowded in anticipation of the speech of the imperial chancellor, admission being by ticket only, and many persons being unable to obtain entrance. It was plainly shown how keen public interest in the Alsace-Lorraine subject has become.

Herr von Bethmann Hollweg spoke with unusual warmth, in clear distinct tones that were audible in every part of the house, and his remarks were frequently interspersed with humorous flashes. The rare event of the clashing of the Conservatives with the Government made the occasion distinctly interesting.

For the first time since he has been in office he had the gratification of hearing his words cheered by the extreme "left," and the applause was heartiest after such words as, "It has been said the Reichsland is not ripe for reform, that the Bundesrat's vote would loosen the bond between state and empire, but the contrary is true; the bond would thereby become firmer and more sure."

The chancellor concluded his speech by saying that the strongest and best way to unite Alsace-Lorraine harmoniously with the German empire was to aid the country to develop her economical and political strength by all possible means, and therefore in this development all had equal interest.

The speaker sat down amidst prolonged cheering from the Socialists, the Liberal parties and in fact from all excepting the Conservatives.

Herr von Oldenburg, a well-known member of the Conservative party, answered the chancellor, declaring that his adherents were totally opposed to the government in this matter, which they considered a blow to Prussia's honor, an utterance which was criticised by the chancellor later.

The conclusion of the whole matter was the adoption of the measure by a vote of 209 to 105, while the liberty of religious belief and of language was assured to the inhabitants of the Reichsland by 220 votes to 100.

MR. MORGAN GIVEN
FRENCH THANKS

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)
LONDON—The cross of St. Martin in sculptured wood, which was stolen from the church of Soudailles, a spurious one being substituted for it, has been restored by J. Pierpont Morgan to its rightful owners, the French nation. An official has been despatched from the French fine arts department to London to fetch the cross.

The communal council of Soudailles, being in want of funds, offered to sell the cross that was in the church to a well known antiquary for £1040. This gentleman soon discovered it was a spurious cross, and was able to inform the council in whose possession the relic really was.

Mr. Morgan, who purchased the relic some six years ago, has received from the French government a warm expression of thanks for his generous gift.

AUSTRALIAN STATE WILL AID SHIPPING

(Special to the Monitor.)
MELBOURNE, Vic.—It has been decided that steps shall be taken toward the improvement of facilities for the shipping trade of Victoria.

Shipbuilding yards are to be constructed at Williamstown, and steps will also be taken to improve and develop the outer ports of Victoria, for it is realized that it is necessary for Victoria to be properly equipped as regards facilities for shipbuilding, in order that the state may be in a position to compete with the other Australian states.

By way of developing the trade facilities of the outer ports of Victoria, a special officer will be appointed to make inquiries on the subject, and prepare a full report.

HYDROPLANE SKIMS OVER WAVES
AT SPEED OF 50 MILES PER HOUR

Signor Forlanini's Craft Is Almost Clear of Water as It Rushes Across Gulf of Genoa in Test Just Made.

FUTURE SEEN GREAT

When the "Machine" Moves on Surface the Hull Rises With "Reaction" and Soon
Only Blades at End Touch.

(Special to the Monitor.)

GENOA, Italy.—The fastest racing craft of today, even by the employment of relatively enormous powers, seldom exceed a speed of 40 miles per hour.
After six years of experimental work, Signor Forlanini has, however, succeeded in obtaining wonderful results with his hydroplane, having attained a speed of 50 miles an hour with a motor of only 100 horse-power.

He feels confident from his experiments that speeds up to 150 kilometers per hour (approximately 93 m.p.h.) will easily be attained because of the relatively small amount of power required per ton-mile.

He estimates that a hydroplane of his design, 70 feet long, weighing about 8 tons, could travel at over 60 miles an hour with a propelling force of 500 horse-power. The hydroplane is very similar to the aeroplane and requires a power approximately proportional to the product of its weight and speed.

Although there are a number of boats known as hydroplanes, they are in reality merely flat-bottomed launches which glide on the surface of the water. The Forlanini hydroplane is quite different, for when running at a high speed the body of the boat is clear of the water and has to encounter only wind pressure.

It is also to a certain degree unaffected by waves, and a hydroplane about twice the size of this one could, it is estimated, work well with waves up to about 56 feet in height and up to about 50 feet in length.

A veritable hydraulic flight is made,
the apparatus being supported on the water in a manner analogous to that in (Copyright 1911. Used by permission.)

Forlanini hydroplane is shown in motion in recent trial across gulf of Genoa.

which birds and aeroplanes are supported in the air. The dynamic reaction of the water on the surfaces and planes attached to the body is what raises the craft clear of the water.

The idea of employing this reaction is not new, but it has not been successfully employed before, except in the case of gliding apparatus known as "riccocheters," which do not leave the surface of the water with increase of speed.

The most important feature of the Forlanini hydroplane is the fact that the resistance of the water to the forward movement of the apparatus is independent of the speed, and, being about equivalent to one twelfth of the total weight, is therefore equal to one twelfth of the weight, plus an amount due to the air which is proportional to the square of the velocity.

The hydroplane recently tested weighs two tons, inclusive of crew of two (in addition to which it can also carry four passengers), and is equipped with a Fiat motor of 100 horse-power.

It has already attained a speed of 75 kilometers an hour (46½ m. p. h.), and this speed will be still further increased by the introduction of a few slight improvements which are now being carried out. Even without these improvements, the hydroplane, on the 23d of December last, was able to cover a distance of 21 miles in 29 minutes, that is to say, at an average speed of 43½ miles per hour.

It has a plate shell 36 feet long, to which are fixed transversely, fore and aft, two strong steel tubes of about 1½ feet in length. To the four free ex-
of superposed blades of strong steel machined with the greatest care are secured by means of suitable supporting rods. These blades decrease in size from top to bottom. When the hydroplane is at rest it floats on the water like an ordinary boat and the blades are submerged.

As soon as the hydroplane commences to move forward, due to the effect of its propeller, the water exerts a vertical pressure on the blades, which are at a slight angle to the horizontal. The hull consequently tends to rise, thus decreas-ing the resistance to its forward movement with consequent increase of speed.
A point is very soon reached at which the hull is completely raised out of the water.

At this point the speed increases still more rapidly and generally the various blades rise one after the other out of the water until at the maximum speed only the last blades rest upon it, while the bottom of the hull is raised some 30 inches above the surface of the water.

"FAREWELL" IS ARRANGED FOR SIR CHARLES SANTLEY

Singer Whose Work in Oratorio Has Made Him Famous Is Honored on Retirement by Complimentary Matinee Given Before Great London Audience.

(Special to the Monitor.)

LONDON—There was a very large audience, including the lord mayor and lady mayoress, at the Royal opera house, Covent Garden, when a complimentary matinee was given to Sir Charles Santley on his retirement from public life. Sir Charles Santley has achieved a great reputation both as an opera singer and on the concert platform, but it is by his work in oratorio that his name will live.

The performance at Covent Garden began at 1:30 and lasted until 5:30, during which time there was hardly an interval, and certainly not a dull moment. All branches of stage art and some of the best exponents of each branch were represented.

The program began with an act of "Samson et Dalila," given by Madame Kirkby-Lunn, M. Darmel and M. Huberdeau, and ended with Dibdin's "Waterman," the famous ballad opera in which Sir Charles Santley made a great reputation some 50 years ago.

Between these two representatives of opera many widely different performances occurred with bewildering rapidity.
Harry Lauder, careered round on his tri-cyle followed by Sir Herbert Tree as Beethoven, strenuously composing the "Fifth Symphony," were not greater contrasts than Miss Maud Allan dancing the Peer Gynt suite and then Mlle. Adeline Genee in the "Dryad," each perfect in her own way.

There were several songs charmingly rendered by Ben Davies, Miss Maggie Teyte and Miss Ruby Helder, and the performance concluded with "Rule Britannia" and the national anthem, both sung by Sir Charles Santley.

BLUE BOOK GIVES VALUE OF BRITISH IMPERIAL TRADE

LONDON—A blue book for the period ending Dec. 31, 1910, has been issued by his majesty's trade commissioners in the self-governing dominions. The reports are from Canada, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa.

In the report from New Zealand it is stated that the value of the imports from the United Kingdom in 1910 was £10,- 494,985 ($52,474,925), or 62.7 per cent of the whole import trade, and the value of the exports to the United Kingdom was £18,633,214 ($93,166,070), or 84.1 per cent of the whole.

This report is founded on G. H. F.
Rollstone's notes, but lately his majesty's trade commissioner for the Dominion.

Mr. Rollstone's impression was that the chief competitors with Great Britain for the trade of New Zealand were the United States and Germany, the American manufacturer having such very sound judgment as to the requirements of the market he supplied, and the German because of the cheapness of his goods.

"GREATER PERTH" IS SCHEME.

(Special to the Monitor.)
PERTH, W. A.—The Greater Perth scheme, a plan for the amalgamation of Perth and certain neighboring municipalities, is progressing satisfactorily, but its early and complete success is somewhat jeopardized by the fact of the abstention of Subiaco and Victoria Park.

TRIBUTE IS PAID
NEW ZEALAND BY LONDON CHAMBER

(Special to the Monitor.)
WELLINGTON, N. Z.—At the annual meeting of the Wellington Chamber of Commerce the good feeling existing between the London Chamber of Commerce and the Dominion chambers was shown by the statement that an invitation had been extended to members from the dominion visiting Great Britain to record their names at the London Chamber of Commerce when all facilities within its power would be placed at their disposal.

The president, H. C. Tewsley, spoke on the question of immigration, expressing his regret that more active steps had not been adopted by the government in this matter.

He stated that there were people who still thought that a greater number of immigrants would mean less employment, whereas it was well known that a large number of the manufacturers in New Zealand could not obtain the labor they were in need of.

ISLANDS WRONGFULLY CHARTED.

(Special to the Monitor.)
WELLINGTON, N. Z.—A court of inquiry has been held here recently in which it was disclosed that King islands have been wrongly placed in the chart, with the effect that the islands are ½ miles southeast of the position given them in the admiralty chart. The rectification of this error will be of great importance to ships passing in this direction.

"ALL AUSTRALIAN"
SHOPPING WEEK HAS REVEALED ADVANCE

(Special to the Monitor.)

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—The All Australia shopping week was supported by over 1000 shops in this city. According to the statistics obtainable the articles exhibited included machinery and plant to the value of £10,330,724 as against £5,707,640 in 1900.

The factories show an increase from 3077 in 1900 to 4581, the number of hands having increased from 60,779 to 91,702, and wages rising from £4,945,079 to £7,765,125.

Manufactured goods have increased in value from £25,648,471 to £42,960,089, the value added to raw materials having increased from £10,010,860 to £14,705, 763.

It appears from the latest statistics that the manufacture of boots and shoes now stands at £1,060,648, wages to the amount of £251,599 being paid to the men and £56,684 to the women workers.

FROM KUBELIK IS TITLE OF GIFT

Little Musician of Streets Plays to Great Violinist Who Expresses Pleasure
by Present of Instrument.

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)
LONDON—David Paget, the boy violinist who played in the streets outside theaters, visited Herr Kubelik at the latter's request.

It may be remembered that Paget won the first prize at a competition organized among street musicians. Afterwards he secured an engagement at the Hippodrome, and through the influence of Mrs.
Francis, wife of the Westminster police magistrate, played before the German Emperor at Lady Lonsborough's reception.

The boy having played to Kubelik the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," was then handed by the great violinist a valuable Stradivarius on which he again played.

Kubelik then took him to a shop in Bond street, where a fine instrument was purchased. On the case of this instrument a plate was attached bearing the following inscription: "To David Paget, with best wishes for his promising future, from Jan Kubelik, May 25, 1911." Paget, the same evening, returned to St. Helens to fulfill an engagement, having with him his new violin.

LORD MINTO CALLS
INDIAN REFORMS OF ENORMOUS IMPORT

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)

EDINBURGH—The freedom of the city of Edinburgh was conferred recently on Lord Minto in recognition of the services he had rendered to the British Empire in Canada and India. Lord
Minto was accompanied by Lady Minto.

In the course of a speech expressing his thanks for the honor that had been conferred upon him, Lord Minto pointed out that he had perhaps been somewhat fortunate in that the period of his two administrations had been in both cases rather unusually full of incident, and he explained that it was by force of circumstances that he was compelled to take his share in important affairs which have left their mark on the history of Canada and India and of the empire.

With regard to his sojourn in India
Lord Minto pointed out that the period of his last five years in India had been full of incident.

"It has," he continued, "attracted the constant attention and watchfulness of the public at home. I am grateful for the opportunity that enabled me to share in the struggle of those five years, for in those years the justice of many Indian claims was recognized—a recognition entailing much enlargement and much supervision of administrative machinery, alterations in the old order of things, and great changes in policy which, like all great changes of that description, excited many differences of opinion and called forth not a little criticism."

These five years, he maintained, had witnessed the inauguration of reforms
"which will contribute enormously not only to the peace of the world, but to the strength of the British rule upon which the happiness of India depends."

INDUSTRIAL BURSARY SYSTEM ANNOUNCED FOR IRISH STUDENTS

DUBLIN—Mr. Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, has announced the welcome news in the House of Commons that the pensions of teachers and the position of assistant teachers in the primary schools in Ireland are to be considered, with the object of introducing such improvements as may be necessary.

The treasury will pay half the money which has been expended on lighting and heating the schools, and is ready to provide £108,670 additional money for new buildings.

A sum of money is to be set apart for the improvement of secondary education, so that the board of intermediate education will be able to draw up a scheme under which boys will be able to pass straight from primary to secondary schools and then to the universities.

"Industrial bursaries" are also announced, for the benefit of those students who wish to follow an industrial career, perhaps after a brilliant course at their university. The bursary will help to support them till they find paying employment in engineering, chemical, or other manufacturing works.

The Royal College of Science for Ireland, Queens College, Cork, and University College, Galway, have been invited to nominate.

The bursaries would be from £50 ($250) to £100 ($500) a year, and would be provided from the profits of the great exhibition of London in 1851.

INNS OF COURT
GIVE DINNER FOR THACKERAY DATE

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)
LONDON—The treasurer and masters of the bench of the middle temple entertained a distinguished party of guests connected with literature, or with Thackeray's family, or members of his old school, Charterhouse.

This year being the centenary of Thackeray's birth, the dinner was given to celebrate the anniversary of his call to the bar.

It is one of the first occasions on which one of the Inns of Court has done special honor to a former member who did not distinguish himself in the gritty paths of law, but in the flowery fields of literature. About 150 members or guests were present, the chair being taken by Sir Robert Finlay.

"Ye Sette of Old Volumes" also celebrated the occasion by a dinner and an exhibition of portraits of Thackeray, his drawings and manuscripts, and first edition of his works, held at the Princes galleries, Piccadilly. Many amusing letters of the novelist were also on view.

C. P. Johnson read a paper on Thackeray in which he alluded to the various professions toward which Thackeray had inclined before finally settling down.

His first idea was that he would be a soldier. He next desired to be an artist.
He then broke out into journalism and editorship. After that he sought to become a police magistrate, and he finally wished to become a member of Parliament. The company then inspected the exhibits.

BUTLER GALLERY OF OLD MASTERS
SELLS FOR $268,830

Pictures at Auction Include "Departure of Lot," "Madonna and Child" and
"Tarquin and Lucretia."

(Special Correspondence of the Monitor.)

LONDON—An important sale of old masters that were the property of Charles Butler, took place at Messrs.
Christie's, the whole sale of 226 lots producing £53,766 ($268,830). A huge profit must have been made on the collection as an investment, as Mr. Butler is said to have given large prices for pictures.

Among the pictures sold was Titian's
"Tarquin and Lucretia," 74 in. by 56 in., formerly in the collection of Charles I., afterwards purchased for the King of Spain, and carried away from that country by Joseph Bonaparte. This picture fell to Messrs. Agnew at 2800 guineas ($13,650). This same picture had been sold in the year 1849 for 500 guineas ($2625), and in 1859 for 395 guineas ($2073).

The sensation of the first day's sale was the price paid for the "Madonna and Child," catalogued as by Andrea del Verrochio. This picture is on a panel 26 in.
by 19 in., and at Sir Walter Farquhar's sale in 1894 had fetched 430 guineas ($2257). Starting at 100 guineas it fell to Mr. Harvey, who was acting for Messrs. Colnaghi & Co. for 6000 guineas ($31,500).

Messrs. Wallis acquired for the Scottish National Gallery Cosmo Roselli's
"St. Catherine of Siena Delivering the Rule to the Sisters of the Second Order of St. Dominic," painted in tempera on panel, for 1250 guineas ($6562); another picture by the same artist was also acquired by Messrs. Wallis for 1100 guineas ($5775).

Another very important picture was Rubens' "Departure of Lot and His Family from Sodom," 85 in. by 96 in., which was presented by the city of Antwerp to John, duke of Marlborough, and remained in the possession of his descendants until the disposal of the Blenheim palace collection in 1886, when it realized 1850 guineas ($9712). This picture was acquired by Messrs. Agnew for 6500 guineas ($34,125).

TRAVELERS CLUB NEW FEATURE IN MOLTKE STRASSE

Kaiser Replies to Telegram and Shows His Interest in Undertaking Begun by Mr. Draper of New York.

(Special to the Monitor.)

BERLIN—A Travelers Club has recently been opened in the Moltke Strasse.
The idea of a club of the kind at Berlin originated with Mr. Draper of New York, in the hope that it would prove a desirable place of meeting for his countrymen abroad.

The scheme was eagerly taken up by influential Germans and a set of large and elegantly appointed rooms has been secured in which every home comfort is to be found. It is believed the club will prove of great advantage to men of every nationality, the moderate fees bringing it within the reach of all.

Mr. Draper has generously presented not only the whole of the furniture but also valuable pictures and useful books.
The Kaiser is much interested in the Travelers Club as a means of promoting cordial international relations. On the opening evening a telegram of greeting was sent by the committee to his majesty, who replied in very cordial terms.

ROME OF A. D. 330
SHOWN IN MODEL

ROME—A model of ancient Rome is now being exhibited in a room which was one of the vaults of the baths of Diocletian. The work is executed in white plaster and consists of a reconstruction of Rome about A. D. 330, showing the buildings and their relative positions to each other with wonderful clearness. It is said that any student of Roman history could instantly identify the places best known to him, and that he would learn more of the general topography of ancient Rome in an hour from the study of this model than he would ever get from books.

The author, M. Bigot, devoted nearly eight years to this work. He consulted all the best authorities on the subject of Roman archeology, and the result is said to be the most correct and the most complete plan of ancient Rome to be found. The model is about 10 yards in length by six in width, and almost every building is detachable from the plan.

JEWS' FREE SCHOOL
IN ENGLAND PRAISED BY LORD ROTHSCHILD

(Special to the Monitor.)

LONDON—Lord Rothschild made some interesting remarks on the occasion of the presentation to him of an illuminated album by the managers, teachers and pupils of the Jews free school at New Court.

Having expressed his gratification at the presentation of the album, Lord Rothschild said that the Jews free school was in the early days in a very different position to the position it was in today. There was at that time, he pointed out, no compulsory system of education.

He remembered when Mr. Lowe was minister of education and Lord John Russell was first lord of the treasury.
The former considered that he had done a very good thing when he abolished the grants to the voluntary schools.

It was supposed also, he said, that the success of the German troops in the Franco-German war was due to the good education of the German soldiers, with the result that Mr. Forster brought in his education bill and the school boards.
When introducing his bill in the House of Commons Mr. Forster declared that there was no city, county or town in England where the education rate would exceed 4d. (8 cents). It was now over 2s. (48 cents) in the majority of cases.

In conclusion, Lord Rothschild pointed

SETTING SHAKESPEARE RIGHT

IT IS interesting to note how often when critics think they have caught Shakespeare napping on some point of correct information a fuller search proves that the critic himself is wrong and the great poet had exact knowledge of the thing in question.

An example of this is found in the line from "Lear,"

"Half way down Hangs one that gathers samphire."

This passage has been cited by Goldsmith and Wordsworth as an example of the imaginative use of the word hang. Wordsworth said, "Neither the goats (of Virgil) nor the samphire gatherer do literally hang." Alphonso Newcomer of Stanford University sent to the New York Evening Post on this point the following data:

George Tollet, who contributed some notes to the Johnson and Stevens edition of Shakespeare, quoted the following from Smith's "History of Waterford" (p. 315, edit. 1774):

"Samphire grows in great plenty on most of the sea-cliffs in this country; it is terrible to see how people gather it, hanging by a rope several fathom from the top of the impending rocks as it were in the air."

There can scarcely be doubt that this is precisely what Shakespeare was describing; let it be remembered, too, that Edgar pretends to be looking down from the top. If any should feel sorrow at losing the imaginative element from the picture, they may console themselves with reflecting once more that Shakespeare knew just what he was talking about.

University Has Treasures in Old Books

The University of Chicago possesses the Oxyrhynchus fragment of the Gospel of Mark, found 10 years ago, which dates back to the fifth century. It has also the first Greek New Testament given to the world, issued by Erasmus in 1516; also the first one printed, the Complutensian Polyglot, which came from a Spanish press in 1514, but was suppressed until 1521.—World Today.

Novel Methods

An artist whose work in water colors is described in the Studio says that because the sable brushes are too small, she uses for certain sweeping effects of light and shade on the dresses, for example, a sponge. This artist is described as using water colors, not within the narrow limitations usually prescribed, but as an individual means of expression. She sometimes joins three pieces of the water color board together to make the big pictures she likes to produce in this medium.

My earnest hope is that the year 1911 will witness a fitting celebration in honor of the 100 years of peace between Great Britain, Canada and the United States, and I trust and believe that the friendly relations now existing will never be disturbed.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

International Hymn

(Tune, America; or 'God Save the King.')

Two empires by the sea,
Two nations great and free,
One anthem raise.
One race of ancient fame,
One tongue, one faith, we claim,
One God, whose glorious name
We love and praise.

What deeds our fathers wrought,
What battles we have fought,
Let fame record.
Now, vengeful passion, cease,
Come, victories of peace;
Nor hate nor pride's caprice Unsheath the sword.

Though deep the sea and wide
Twixt realm and realm, its tide Binds strand to strand.
So be the gulf between Grey coasts and islands green,
With bonds of peace serene
And friendship spanned.

Now, may the God above
Guard the dear lands we love,
Both East and West.
Let love more fervent glow,
As peaceful ages go,
And strength yet stronger grow,
Blessing and blest.

—George Huntington.

PUBLICITY HAS REAL VALUE

THAT advertising plays an enormous part in the world of today is evident almost every time one lifts one's eyes. Street signs of many kinds, or billboards, or the thousands upon thousands of announcements in newspapers and magazines, or carts painted to tell a story, or wrappers around a bit of chocolate, or labels blown into glass bottles—all these things show the eagerness of modern business to keep its name before the public. Advertising and Selling is a handsomely printed magazine devoted to this branch of business needs and even made readable to the disinterested observer who only glances through it.

Perhaps the most characteristic article in the current issue is one bearing a small square-lined legend that reads,

"Smoky Fireplaces Made to Draw Or No Charge," etc. The story that goes with this to prove what may be done by a small advertisement regularly inserted, tells that a man whose specialty was heating and ventilating began business in 1878 on the same corner where his son is today. Having had success in making fireplaces consume their own smoke the man bethought him of putting this advertisement into certain newspapers.

Year after year this heavily lined little square has appeared in the daily press. As the writer says, "There is nothing in the advertisement to make you start out wildly to find a fireplace in the house that does not draw so that you may test the brilliant offer of the advertiser," but one who has noted the sign year in and year out knows that if he ever did have a troublesome fireplace Whitley would be his man.

So much business has come in through this persistent informing of the public that Whitley's son is still at work on the chimneys of the city and still keeps his father's advertisement with the same wording as in the beginning.

It is interesting to remark in passing that one reason why the little chimney advertisement means pecuniary return is that fireplaces are more and more in demand, old ones are being opened up, new ones are being put in and new houses are being built with them. Even the new fireplaces are not always successful, and the friend in need who will rid one's rooms of the intrusive smoke is evidently appreciated by the New York public.

What Painters Need

David Murray, R. A., in the course of an admirable criticism of the work of the members of a sketching club, laid great stress on the need of young landscape painters to study still life. The practice of painting still life and the careful study and analysis of the forms and colors of objects that do not move would help them almost to anticipate the changes in the kaleidoscope of nature that are so bewildering to the painter working in the open air. They must, he said, as students, take care not to put art before nature, or to attempt to take liberties with her until their knowledge was matured.—Studio.

Every hand is wanted in this world that can do a little genuine, sincere work.—George Eliot.

CHILDLIKENESS

HERE is a wealth of meaning in the rebuke which Jesus administered to his disciples when they were having a dispute, as related in Matthew's gospel, as to which of them knew most of the priceless truths concerning life which their patient Master was endeavoring to impart to them: "Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." In placing the little child before his contentious disciples, Jesus indicated that man is the child of God, and that before we can enjoy harmony we must get rid of our wrong concept of ourselves—put off "the old man" with his thoughts—and learn life anew.

Jesus did not mean that we need to return to material childhood. This is not feasible, and his instruction was always of a most practical nature. When Jesus told Nicodemus that he must be born again, the ruler asked if he must be born again materially. Jesus replied made it clear that the new birth he referred to was the purification and spiritualization of thought. Jesus practised what he preached and his success in healing was due to his purity and his clear perception of the scientific fact, that he—that is the Christ—was the true idea, or Son of God.

The fact ascertained in Christian Science that man is the perfect child of God reveals to each one who perceives this truth and receives it sufficiently to begin to put it into practice, unlimited possibilities for good. The Scriptures say, "As many as received him [the true idea of God], to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." The rule of perfection is available for every individual, however much or little he may yet have proved of this Science of being. Every one is free to prove step by step that infinite Mind, including all ability, every faculty and every right idea is present for every one to understand, love and reflect. This provides the solution to the seemingly difficult problems of individual and racial inferiority, and adds faith to our hope in ultimate universal salvation.

While it is unchangeably true that the real man—the image and likeness of the perfect Father—is, and always has been perfect, we are not thereby exempted from diligent work. Rather does this fact reveal the necessity for unremitting labor. It is well, however, that we gain a correct idea concerning our part in the work. The familiar hymn fittingly says:

"The work to be performed is ours,
The strength is all His own."
Paul, who preached "Work out your own salvation," and practised this precept with strenuous and ceaseless activity, was careful to make it clear that all power belongs to God. "By grace are ye saved through faith," he wisely reminds us, "and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast."

This fact of man's present perfection as God's idea is that which Jesus declared was hidden from the worldly-wise and prudent, but was clearly discerned by babes. This is the pearl of great price, to purchase and retain which we must part with all notions, theories and beliefs which conflict with it. This calls for active work—a work in which the apostle

Figured the Wrong Way

Two old salts who had spent most of their lives on fishing smacks had an argument one day as to which was the better mathematician. Finally the captain of the ship proposed the following problem which each would try to work out: If a fishing crew caught 500 pounds of cod and brought their catch to port and sold it at 6 cents a pound, how much would they receive for the fish? They got to work, but neither seemed to be able to master the intricacies of the deal in fish, and were unable to get any answer.

At last Bill turned to the captain and asked him to repeat the problem. The captain started off: "If a fishing crew caught 500 pounds of cod and—"

"Wait a moment," said Bill, "is it cod-fish they caught?"

"Yes," said the captain.

"That explains it," said Bill. "No wonder I couldn't get an answer. Here I've been figuring on salmon all the time."—Newark Star.

Peter's practical instruction proves very useful: "Laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings, as new-born babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby." An honest analysis of this wholesome advice, and an unprejudiced recognition of our need of applying it to ourselves, will enable us to rid ourselves progressively of every tendency to sin and suffer, and to help others who are ready for this help, to overcome the common enemy. A passive recognition of the need for this active work will not of itself enable us to "grow thereby."

There is a demand for resolute work, much silent wrestling with passion and appetite. We may sometimes be prone to think that our own experience is unique in its trying ordeals, but if we even think anything of this kind we shall do well to remember Paul's assurance that "there hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man" and that God will "make a way to escape" that ye may be able to bear it." This encourages us to face without fear, and to overcome the evil which is uncovered in our own mentality. Thus we are enabled to "put off the old man" (the false sense of ourselves as created materially and imperfectly) and to "put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness."

Harry Lauder Friend of Ponies

AT a private dinner given at the Savoy hotel in London, where the guests were chiefly members of Parliament, Harry Lauder sang in his inimitable way a selection of his popular airs. Responding to an expression of thanks, Mr. Lauder made an appeal to representatives of the House of Commons on behalf of the pit-ponies.

He drew a picture of the hard life of these little animals in the underground galleries, and recalled how on one occasion when he himself was a working miner he was saved by the sagacity of a pony. He pleaded for their regular inspection so that they might be protected from ill-treatment and overwork.

It was apparently an excellent and a most effective little speech, and a distinguished member of the House who was present described it as one of the most persuasive he had ever heard.

Kite Tests

One of the interesting aeronautical experiments of these days is testing the lifting power of kites. At the Boston aviation meet a man was lifted 200 feet or more into the air by a series of large kites. A naval officer has experimented with kites, taking photographs from the swaying seat lifted 300 feet above his ship.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT

For Youthful Artists

Outdoor pencil sketching is something which children may be encouraged to try with very little teaching. With drawing paper and pencils—carpenter's pencils with a broad lead are best—of three grades, light, medium and dark, and with some slight knowledge of perspective such as most children gain nowadays in public schools, a child with some encouragement finds that he can actually make a recognizable sketch of some object familiar to his friends and is happy to occupy summer hours in this quiet pursuit.

He should be led to see that the object he chooses as his center of interest must be the strongest in color and accent and that the other things in the sketch should be in lighter tone and gradually fade away, as it were, from the chief object. The children can choose their values—important points—with the idea of leaving out as much as possible yet telling the story. The soft pencil should be used chiefly in finishing the sketch, to give accent where desired. It is a good plan for the child to draw various parts of the subject first—a window or chimney or porch, etc. An article in the School Arts Book for June tells about this work.

New Fruits Accepted Slowly

Ten years ago a direct line of steamships between Jamaica and England was established, chiefly for the purpose of giving the British public a plentiful supply of bananas. The government was interested in the project to the extent of granting an annual subsidy of £20,000. With the end of the decade, however, it became discouraged and withdrew the subsidy, and the line has now been discontinued, says the New York Post. This result is not surprising, in view of the fact that whereas during the six months ended Sept. 30, 1910, 9,000,000 bunches of bananas were shipped to the United States, England took only 400,000 bunches. Evidently our English cousins have yet to learn what a delicious and nutritious fruit the banana is.

The ancient oriental monarch who offered a fortune for a new dish would be amazed if he lived today to find how difficult it is to coax a nation into the enjoyment of a new delicacy. The grape fruit has only recently become known to any extent in England, and chiefly through the efforts of the wife of a prominent publisher; and tomatoes, without which no American seems to be able to exist for a long time, are seldom eaten in Europe. However, we, too, have our foibles. After trying hard for years, the dealers have almost given up endeavoring to make us acquainted with the delicious Japanese persimmon.

Carolina Figs

The sea islands of South Carolina are being planted with thousands of fig trees. The Charleston News and Courier says that "the fig idea has also 'taken' all along the coast." There is a strong demand for the fig crop ripens before cotton-picking time and when labor is plentiful. The fig trees, which begin to bear within three years, live long, and year by year increase their volume of fruitage. It is predicted that the Carolina planters will add to their acreage of fig orchards until the fruit shall rival cotton as a staple—and this without in any way interfering with the cotton crop.—Milwaukee Free Press.

"From Whence Cometh My Help"

My Father, may I lift my eyes to the hills? May I not be satisfied with the standards of the plains? May I seek my ideals in the mount? May I breathe the mountain air even when I walk the valleys of time?—John Henry Jocett.

Composing Picture to Photograph

The same rules that apply to drawing must be considered in picture making with the kodak. The best placing of the principal object is not in the center of the space, the sky-line must not divide our view in half, balance, rhythm and harmony are as good watchwords as ever.—School Arts Book.

Patriotic Song Wanted

Encouragement of patriotic art and even a school of American song is seen in the recent announcement that A. E. Stillwell, president of the American Land & Irrigation Exposition, to be held at Madison Square Garden this fall, is offering a prize of $100 for the best words for a song such as might ultimately become the song of the Empire state. The verses will be set to music and sung daily by a large chorus at the exposition. These songs must have not more than five nor less than three stanzas and must be sent to the American Land & Irrigation Exposition, Singer building, New York, before the Fourth of July.

Still I must wander and wait
Still I must watch and pray,
Not forgetting in whose sight
A thousand years in their flight
Are as a single day.

—Longfellow.

Leaving Out the Things Non-Essential

"I heard one day one of our best painters say to a student who complained of not being able to succeed with a picture he intended for the Salon, 'Take away, suppress; you have never left out enough.' But how can one work in order to acquire this simplicity of execution which is real art? Corot, the grand master of landscape, replied to an amateur who reproached him because of the high price he charged him for a picture which to him seemed to contain so little, and who added as a last argument, 'But then, master, you have only taken two hours to paint this': 'Two hours, monsieur! I have taken 30 years.'"—M. J. Iwill.

Success of the Viennese Men's Choir

The tour of the Viennese Men's Choir has been most successful. While in Rome they gave a concert in the presence of Queen Margherita and the royal family in the palace gardens. So pleased was her majesty with the performance that she requested them to sing several extra pieces. A concert given by the choir in the great hall of the Augusteo was equally successful and was attended by a large and enthusiastic audience. The choir, proceeding to Venice, met with a similar success in that city.

Uses of Paper

Speaking of the many uses of paper in the modern world an article on salesmanship in Advertising and Selling says: Suppose we had to revert to the age of barter when the hatter traded a hat with the shoemaker for a pair of brogans. Would that suit this lightning-paced twentieth century? Today the shoemaker buys his hat, has the sale entered on a paper slip, from which it is charged into a paper book, packed in a paper box and sent to his home. At the end of the month he receives a paper bill and pays it with a paper check, sent with a paper letter, enclosed in a paper envelope, carried by a paper postage stamp.

Artist and Mason

The architect in charge of the architectural department of the Vienna Arts and Crafts Society is more than an architect. He is a practical mason, for he has gone through all the stages of his trade and is a thorough workman in every sense. His name is Paul Roller.

The gentleman is a man of truth, lord of his own actions, and expressing that lordship in his behavior. The word 'he' notes good nature or benevolence; manhood first and then gentleness.—Emerson.

BIG LANDSCAPE GARDENING

VIEW IN STANLEY PARK, VANCOUVER.

TO the eastern eye the heavy masses of trees shown in the pictures of Stanley park, Vancouver, B. C., look as if the forests primeval had been fenced in to make a Canadian holiday. Good roads lie through the forests, but the whole appearance of the reserve would seem to be much what it was when settlers first found this American northwest—as it ranked then—and Canadian and United States folk discussed under which flag the region should be finally mustered in. The region from what is now the southern boundary of Oregon to 54 degrees north—some distance up into British Columbia, was long in dispute and was settled by treaty in 1846.

Sheep as Beasts of Burden

In the northern part of India sheep are put to a use unthought of in European countries. They are made to serve as beasts of burden. The mountain paths among the foothills of the Himalayas are so precipitous that the sheep, more sure-footed than larger beasts, are preferred as burden carriers.

The load for each sheep is from 10 to 20 pounds. The sheep are driven from village to village, with the wool still growing, and in each town the farmer shears as much wool as he can sell there, and loads the sheep with the grain which he receives in exchange.

After his flock has been sheared he turns it homeward, each sheep having on its back a small bag containing the purchased grain.—New York Mail.

How and Where of Progress

PRESENT-DAY economic tendencies seem to be as full of contradiction as of interest and instruction. There is such a shifting around of attitudes, such a juggling of expressions, that one who is content with mere surface manifestations is quite certain to be misled. The interest lies, however, in the changing conditions, the instruction in the changing convictions, that are seemingly undermining and unsettling time-honored and deep-rooted theories and practices. The conservative of today, almost without warning, accepts a plank from the platform of the radical of yesterday. The capitalist who yesterday expressed unmistakable alarm over the growth of collectivist sentiment today voluntarily proposes a socialistic remedy for economic ills. The builder of a stupendous commercial edifice upon a foundation of capital acquired through individual effort frankly expresses the belief that competition should become obsolete, and invites, in behalf of the interests he represents, the patronage, the protection and the control of the state.

Private combination all but asserts that it is paving the way to ultimate public ownership and operation of industries as well as utilities. Dazed, as it were, by its collision with government, with organized society, its first impulse is to beg for terms of surrender. To save its investment, at least to be permitted to draw interest upon it indefinitely, it would sacrifice to expediency the principle of individualism to which the world heretofore, rightly or wrongly, has attributed all it has gained in enlightenment, comfort and freedom. Private combination is certain to recover shortly from its panicky feeling and to take a calmer and saner view of the situation; not so certain is it, however, that, having recovered, at least partially, from its fright, it will change its tactics and its methods and alter a course that in recent years has been preparing the thoughts of American citizens for the acceptance of economic changes which they would have unhesitatingly spurned in other days.

A great structural economic change is inevitable. There is now little question about this. Uncertainty relates rather to the speed with which it will come and the form it will ultimately assume. Happily for the country, neither the time, manner nor form of the change will apparently be determined on the one hand by the impulsive and too aggressive radical element, nor on the other by the class whose conservatism is rooted mainly in self-interest. The great mass of the people, whose welfare is at stake in every revolutionary movement, and whose voice and vote constitute the decisive factor, cherishes opinions of its own as to the departures in policy and government that are desirable or undesirable. It will not permit Judge Gary, any more than it would permit Mr. Debs, to settle so momentous a question. The nation and its well-being are considerations that in the common thought overshadow all others. They dwarf seemingly tremendous political and economic agitations as they do the aggregated wealth, interests and pretensions of all the trusts. In this fact lie hope and assurance.

If FURNISHING bonds will prevent aeronauts from causing losses to owners of greenhouses by precipitous descent on glass roofs, the bird-men will hardly find any fault with such arrangements.

Boston Teachers' Pay

IF THE Senate abides by its vote refusing to pass over the veto of the Governor the original bill making mandatory a definite increase in the pay of the elementary teachers of the Boston schools, it does not follow that there can be no remedial legislation by this General Court. Because there has been turmoil reflecting no particular credit upon any of the chief factors in it, it does not follow that constructive action cannot follow, providing there is a disposition to forgive and forget. Of course, continuance of recrimination between factors and factions that should cooperate will defeat any solution of the problem affecting the entire teaching force. But a conciliatory policy, with unity of aim and action, can bring to pass favorable reporting of a bill unobjectionable in its statutory form, inclusive in its provisions of aid, and careful in its recognition of the due rights of both state and city. Failure to be sensible and opportunist at this juncture will cause postponement of the matter another year, a responsibility that no prudent and politic official or party to the controversy will care to shoulder.

It is no time for bitter attacks upon the motives of any persons responsible for past complications. Rather it is time to acknowledge that there is something to be said for all the points of view that have been championed. Fortunately there is substantial agreement as to the necessity of a higher salary scale for the Boston teaching force. Conflict has arisen over ways and means of bringing it to pass. There is a via media out of the tangle, and it will be found sooner through wisdom than through passion.

Truth vs. the Record

SOME phases of the unveracity of the Congressional Record are so comical and so obviously hypocritical that it is easy to be humorous and cynical in commenting upon them. But there are other aspects of the matter that lead to a more serious temper of mind. No record of the procedure of the highest legislative body of a nation can depart in the slightest degree from strict truth without exercising a pernicious effect upon contemporary readers or without deceiving subsequent investigators who naturally will turn to it for light upon history. That the number of such readers or investigators is small has nothing to do with the case. The record should report only what is said, and not that which some one hoped to say or that which should have been said. Any annotations or supplementary editing, so far as they relate to the content of formal speeches or the give-and-take of debate, should be clearly indicated as such; and all interpellations indicating the effect of speakers' words should be by official reporters. As it is, the record is sown with "applause" and kindred descriptive terms in a way that often registers the egotism of speakers who exercise the privilege of editing their own copy.

If deception of gullible constituents is one of its purposes, the Record, as now edited, is a desirable publishing medium for politicians. It enables the dumb to seem to rival Clay and Webster, and it makes it possible for Uncle Sam to have laid upon him the duty of publishing an inordinate amount of irrelevant opinion and unassimilated statistics and much partizan controversial literature, all this often in a form indicating the editorial influence of a worshiper of self.

A law-making body's official record provides a sure test of the refinement and ethics of the body itself. When this fact is better understood by more senators and congressmen, they will support Congressman Mann and other critics in their present effort to establish new standards of editing the Record. As it is, the Record is not very creditable to the United States. Popular indifference to it registers this as well as other attitudes that of necessity limit its circulation.

It will shortly be in order for the big cities to enter upon a friendly rivalry with regard to their respective postal savings bank deposits.

Venezuela Without Castro

SOMEWHAT more than two years ago Cipriano Castro became a man without a country. Repudiated by his own people, the former President of Venezuela was compelled to put the Atlantic ocean between himself and the western world. Acting in concert, the United States, France and Great Britain took means to see the Venezuelan well away from American waters. He went to Europe, and from time to time reports were current that he was conspiring to regain possession of the South American republic over which he had wielded hardly less than a dictatorship. As for Venezuela, all indications are to the effect that something like real order has come out of the political and international chaos which had prevailed during the Castro regime. President Gomez seems to have a complete understanding with the United States. Internal affairs are greatly improved, and relations with foreign nations, strained to the breaking point when the former President dominated the country, are now fairly amicable.

Under the circumstances, the return of Senor Castro can hardly be for the good of Latin America. Ambition may spur him on, and there is little doubt that he has abilities, even if they have been misdirected. But Venezuela is hardly anxious to go through new experiences such as almost eliminated the nation as a factor in Pan-American affairs. The Caracas government would be neglecting its duty were it not to make every effort to learn the whereabouts of the one Venezuelan who more than any other seems to threaten the peace of the country. And it is no less gratifying that Washington will take measures to prevent any revolutionary act that might disturb the quiet to the south of the Panama canal.

Without some base of operation in the West Indies, Senor Castro's suppositional attempt to regain his country would be effort wasted. Jamaica will take good care that no support shall issue from there, and, as for Cuba, the government gives assurance that no Cuban port is to be turned into a rendezvous from where revolutionary expeditions can issue at the pleasure of those bent on upsetting Latin-American conditions.

Should Senor Castro reach West Indian waters, his reception there is likely to be in line with what was noted when he left Venezuela. He is not wanted in the western world, it seems. The better sentiment appears to be that his retirement to private life should be permanent in order that Venezuela may work out her destiny unhindered.

NOTHING could be more natural, and few things more profitable, than that Chicago and Boston should sit down together during the coming visit, compare notes and see how far each has really traveled toward its bigger, better, busier ideal.

UNDER the pressure of a time limit for work, making its labors intense, a field force of expert foresters from Washington has been busy inspecting the White mountain region, making agreements with individuals and lumber companies willing to sell on reasonable terms and initiating the work of conservation and creation of reserves for which the last Congress made provision. They find a natural disinclination on the part of many owners to dispose, on any terms, of tracts of virgin timber which have an increasing market value. But, on the other hand, there has been an agreeably surprising willingness on the part of some owners to agree that hereafter all cutting shall be in conformity with rules of wise timbering as defined by the department of agriculture; and even more owners are willing to negotiate for the sale of cut-over lands and tracts of timber lying too high on the hills for advantageous lumbering.

The campaign of the federal experts charged with this important task of wisely using funds from the national treasury for gaining title to a forest reserve in the New Hampshire hills seems to have been projected with wisdom, and by men aware of the pitfalls in the way of greatest success. Happily, local sentiment now is much more favorable to conservation than it was a decade ago. Public opinion in the state will impel owners of timber lands to offer more reasonable terms to the government than such owners would perhaps make of their own initiative. There are certain powerful "interests" now fully aware that from a business standpoint it is folly to go on stripping the hills of timber that holds in the soil and equally distributes a supply of water essential to the highest productivity of mills throughout the state and in northern Massachusetts. So that persons all over the country who are attracted to the White mountains each year by their beauty, and who have aided in the contest at Washington to have them, as far as possible, included in the area of national reservation, may be encouraged to know that sentiment in New Hampshire today is not so short sighted as it used to be, and there is now juster appreciation of what the hills and the forests are worth.

GERMAN cities, with their deliberate policy of municipal ownership and development of outlying urban regions in conformity with a city plan, and Great Britain, with its housing and town-planning act, are a long way ahead of the United States in meeting and solving problems of housing urban and suburban dwellers. A process of education, by no means brief, must still go on before a majority of Americans, educated in the dominant school of economics of the last century, will authorize such extensions of collective authority over property as British and German advanced legislation now make possible in city planning and betterment.

Contributing to this process of education is the work of the national housing conference which has just held its annual meeting in New York city, where the problem discussed has such pertinent, concrete application. But, even there, light dawns as repeated ventures have proved that profit on investment can go along with conformity to standards of construction that are high. Of course, peculiar local conditions make exceedingly difficult the problem of the home for the person of moderate income. Consequently it is beyond the city, toward Long Island, now made accessible by tunnel and bridges and rapid transit, that the tide of settlers is turning, and it is there, in a town designed by Mr. Olmsted of Boston and built with funds given by the Russell Sage foundation, that a community will soon be gathered that will live under ideal housing conditions and in conformity to principles of rational town planning. As a concrete expression of a consensus of the best opinion of the day, sifted and tested by men who have studied the best the world has to show in municipal government and structure, this town at Forest Hills must come to have a far-reaching educational effect. Thither will turn men of wealth, with a purpose to serve society, eager also to conserve their capital and to retain a comfortable income, perhaps desirous of creating for the industry which they control a setting and environment as attractive and as wholesome as one finds in so many of the English towns that have been planned and created of late years in regions formerly wholly rural. Such investigators will find that investment of the kind pays dividends in dollars and cents, as well as in moral gains for dwellers and workers in the homes that are well built, outwardly attractive and suitably fitted into their right places.

As investors and builders, capitalists can now summon to their aid advisers of a type that former generations knew nothing of, men and women with expert knowledge as to the many phases of urban and suburban life which depend for their evil or excellent effects upon the housing of the people, and advisers who can give counsel, at little or no cost, that will keep such buildings as are constructed steadily rented by the sort of people who need to be housed in that better way.

MR. TAFT calls for the bill, the whole bill, and nothing but the bill. This is where Mr. Root raises his hat and crosses the street.

COMMERCIAL and international aspects of the isthmian canal have been so largely the consideration in the discussion touching benefits to be derived, that another feature, scarcely less significant, has been overlooked by many interested in the waterway. The question of settling the Pacific coast country is still an open one. With a population of a little more than 2,000,000, California, to instance one of the states, has room for many more. From Alaska southward rich areas offer every inducement to settlers. Workers are wanted there, and, had not this been the case there would have been no such persistent effort by the Asiatics to enter the country in large numbers. The bulk of European immigration does not reach as far west as the Pacific states. The great distance from Atlantic seaports may not unreasonably be considered a cause.

With the opening of the Panama canal a new transportation factor enters. It may play a most conspicuous part in the settlement of the Pacific coast. Ships from Europe will make the other side of the continent in quick order by using the new waterway. If the overland journey be dispensed with, taking with it a large item of cost, no doubt many immigrants could be induced to go to the Pacific west. It is very clear that European labor will never attempt to crowd into the Asiatic countries where overpopulation is even now a serious problem. Since the general movement, therefore, is likely to continue toward America, it is not difficult to believe that the Pacific coast will in time receive a much larger proportion of the whole, especially when every facility is made available for peopling the states.

What has been said in relation to the United States may perhaps be applied also to Central and South America. Heretofore the east coast has received the larger number of immigrants from southern Europe. A more even distribution would probably be welcomed by the Latin-American nations which need many more millions for the development of their virgin territories.

Population is a source of strength to any nation. As the Pacific coast country becomes more closely settled, such settlement in itself will be a protection. The domination of the great sea by a single power, a prophecy which still seems of some concern to many, will be less and less plausible when California has more millions as citizens. Had the Golden state been crowded with people, Asiatic labor would hardly have thought it worth while to get in. For this reason, again, the Panama canal seems to point a way whereby immigration can follow the line of least resistance and make the canal of more than military or commercial importance.

THE police situation in New York is so complex that the chief of the Havana force, while in the metropolis, may find rich opportunity for any Sherlock Holmes qualifications that he may possess.

THERE will still be some who differ with Colonel Goethals when the chief engineer of the canal says that the Panama waterway is a war measure.

PARCEL POST service with Brazil brings the United States a little closer to a realization of adequate Pan-American communication.

NEW YORK is excusably proud of the record made by its "white wings" at work as well as on dress parade.

ASIDE from every other consideration, the raising of the Maine looks like a fine piece of engineering.
